COAL CONDITIONS TO BE MUCH WORSE, CHINESE LABOR DOUBLED IN PROVINCE, PEOPLE PAY PRICE OF INDIFFERENCE

Parker Williams, M. P. P., Addressing Public Meeting in Vancouver, Places Industrial Hardships of Province at Door of Premier McBride's Monopolistic Policy and Agreements With Capitalists

WHITE LABOR PROTECTION CLAUSE OMITTED BY THE 5, 10 AND 15 CENT POLITICIANS

Vancouver, June 16.—That the coal situation in British Columbia was going to get very much worse before it got better was the prediction made last night by Parker Williams, M. P. P., in a speech delivered in the Dominion theatre, in which he raked the McBride government fore and aft, for its policy of handing over the resources of the province to monopolists.

At the outset, by request, he explained the situation in the coal mines of Vancouver Island, pointing out that nine months ago, 1500 miners at Ladysmith and Cumberland got into a tangle with the company over working conditions, and when the company refused to talk business, the 1500 men took the only remedy in their hands—they stopped work.

"The miners went to the provincial government and asked for an inquiry into working conditions, but they found that government so tied, body, bones and soul, to Mackenzie & Mann, that they could do nothing for the workers. Then they appealed to the labor department at Ottawa, but that government was so busy trying to send millions of the people's money to be spent on ships of war outside of Canada that they, too, refused to do anything, or at least did nothing to offend Mackenzie & Mann. The provincial government was so busy talking about a white British Columbia and ignoring the employment of yellow labor in the mines that the miners of Cumberland and Ladysmith appealed to their brothers in Nanaimo, Wellington and Jingle Pot to help them, and help them they did."

"I am under the impression that before the strike situation gets better it is likely to get a good deal worse, and that two or three things may happen, which will cripple the whole industry of British Columbia unless the companies back down. You people of Vancouver may suffer, but if you do, it will be the price of your indifference last winter to the requests made to you by the men on the island who asked for help in securing safe conditions of working, and you will have to pay the penalty."

Mr. Williams declared that Sir Richard McBride, who drew $4,000 a year as minister of mines, owed it to the people to see to it that working conditions were made fair, but more than that, the government, as the trustee of the people, should see to it that the men who had been given the coal areas worked them and did not hold them to the loss of the public revenue.

"This Tory aggregation at Victoria—the very worst British Columbia has ever had, and who cannot be chased out too soon—are too close to Mackenzie & Mann for the good of the people," he said.

Next taking up the premier's boast that his government stood for a white British Columbia, Mr. Williams declared that while Sir Richard was thus tooting his horn, he was doing all in his power to aid the immigration of Chinese into the province. "There are to-day," he said, "twice as many Chinese employed in the mines as there were a year ago, and this by the aid of the special policy of your local member, W. J. Bowser." (Hoots and cries of shame.)

"This government boasts of the legislation on the statute book which prevents the employment of Chinese on railway work, but they do not tell you that that legislation was passed long before they came into power."

"Sir Richard McBride is a glutton for advertising. Every now and then he gets someone to go over to Victoria and ask for leave to import Chinese for railway work, and he puffs out his chest, which he is fond of doing, and declares that the law prevents him acceding to the request, but never stating that the law was passed in 1901-2; and the News-Advertiser and the Colonist have another chance to print his picture."

"Is it not peculiar that this McBride-Bowser government which is always talking about a 'white British Columbia' has never put one single enactment on the statute books for that purpose?"

MOROS ARE ROUTED DURING THE NIGHT

Meagre Reports Reach Manila of Fighting on the Island of Jolo.

Manila, June 16.—Complete rout of the rebellious Moros on Mount Bagas was accomplished by the American forces during the night with the loss of six men killed and seven wounded. Reports of the engagement reaching here by wireless from the island of Jolo are meagre. All of the American killed were members of the several companies of scouts. In the first advance up the mountain last week when the Moros were nearly dislodged from their positions, six Americans were killed.

The number of dead among the Moros is not known, as the night battle began just before dark. The fighting was so determined that the Moros at last went away and left the mountain clear. They are present at large, and will be pursued vigorously.

Brigadier-General Pershing, commanding the department of Mindanao is leading the forces.

TRIED THREE TIMES TO TAKE OWN LIFE

Charles Donnelly in New Westminster Hospital Has Bullet in His Head.

New Westminster, June 16.—After three desperate and unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide an Irishman named Charles Donnelly, of this city, is recovering at the Royal Columbian hospital, and has now decided that it will be sweeter to live. Last April he placed the muzzle of a .38-calibre revolver in his right ear and pulled the trigger. The bullet is still in his head and an artery was severed and he lost a vast quantity of blood. The whole of his left side was paralyzed. The paralysis is now leaving him, and Dr. McQuarrie, who is in attendance, believes he will recover. One of his other attempts to commit suicide consisted in swallowing a very heavy dose of opium, but this only made him violently ill for some time. Upon his recovery he will be examined as to his sanity.

Letter From Cape Prince of Wales Tells Story of Cowardice and Treachery

MAN STOLE SKINS BUT WAS CAPTURED

Disabled Man and Friend Deserted in Face of Gale and Arctic Night

MARSHAL GOES FIFTY- TWO MILES FOR THIEF

Seattle, June 16.—Describing the harrowing experience of a party who were wrecked on Diomed Island and who crossed the ice of Behring Sea to the mainland, Charles A. Thompson has written a letter from Cape Prince of Wales, Alaska, dated March 18, which reached Seattle yesterday. Rivaling a novel in thrills is the story of a heroic attempt of survivors to reach shore, of the peridy and cowardice of one cast-away who turned thief and deserted a lame comrade in the Arctic waste, and the subsequent chase and capture of the fugitive by a United States marshal just outside his home.

The letter tells how three men were wrecked last October on the Asiatic coast, and worked to East Cape, leaving there November 1 in a small boat in which they reached Big Diomed Islands. Here the boat was crushed by ice floes and rocks. They moved to Little Diomed and on Sunday, March 9, the ice came down in such quantities that the strait for 38 miles was packed solid from the United States territory to Asia.

The men decided to cross by dog team and reached Wales, when the man driving the team whipped up the dogs and deserted his two companions, one of whom was lame. The latter fell into water in a gale with the mercury three degrees above zero. They turned back, arriving through the gale with the lame man's hands and feet frozen.

The sled contained about $2,500 worth of furs, and this was the reason for their being left to perish on the ice, and was also the reason they were determined to follow him or die. The man with the sled knew it was impossible for them to follow him, as they were facing a gale, and an Arctic night would overtake them long before they could reach this side, continues the letter.

"My first knowledge of the affair was about 3 p. m., writes Mr. Thompson, when making my sick calls and going into one of the 'inner' or 'lodge' houses, the man said to me in Eskimo: 'A white man came from the Diomed.' This being unusual, I went and found him in one of the inner, smoking his pipe and taking it easy. He said the ice was very rough for some miles out from the mainland there, comparatively level though broken by strips of open water that made it necessary to go long distances to get around; also that a man had been left on the ice to perish, I called a meeting of the men of the village to meet at the 'koga,' our underground town hall.

"About fifty men responded—the others had not returned from the day's sealing—and after hearing the story of the native who had come, we decided to have the white man tell his story and sent for him to come to the koga."

"Not knowing the object of the invitation, he came very readily, but when I began to question him, he soon saw the drift of my questions and rose on his dignity and asked what business it was of mine."

"For a wonder, I kept my temper, though he became very insulting, and as I kept on with my questions he started across the koga to answer with fists and feet, but desisted when a number of Eskimos gathered round. I sent a man with a dog team sixty-five miles to telephone to Nome."

"My man left at 5.30 the next morning, taking an account I had written for the Nome papers and also a notice to the marshal's office."

"Instead of going to Nome the next morning, as he had intended, the white man went out a couple of miles on the ice pretending to look for the lost man, though the night before he had sworn time and again he wouldn't go—telling me that I might look for the man myself if I was so much interested in his welfare."

"When he returned from his alleged search he remained in the village till the next day, but left the following day about 8 a. m., feeling perfectly secure in the fact that his partner would never show up and that he was resolute to leave the outfit."

"The Eskimo engaged had a good team of eleven dogs and landed in

HINDUS SEEKING TO HAVE PROMISE KEPT

Mass Meeting Passes Resolutions to Be Sent to Ottawa and Other Authorities

ONE WHOLE FAMILY PRESENT AT MEETING

Poor Economic Policy by Which Men Send Earnings Away, Says President

MORTALITY IS SEVEN IN EVERY THOUSAND

Vancouver, June 16.—"We, the Hindustanis of Canada, assembled in a mass meeting at the O'Brien hall, Vancouver, B. C., on this 15th day of June, 1913, request the Dominion government of Canada that the promise given to our delegates on December 15, 1911, by the then minister of interior, Hon. Robert Rogers, that families of the Hindustanis domiciled here shall be admitted into Canada, be given effect to in a suitable manner without any further delay. We further request that the secretary of state for Indian and the colonies be advised of the decision of the Dominion government as to their intention in this most vital question of our civil life in this country affecting us as British subjects and as men."

This resolution was carried at a thronged meeting of Hindus held yesterday afternoon. A resolution was also carried asking continued co-operation "in this most vital question affecting ourselves, our homes, and our little ones, and which is a standing disgrace to India, to Canada, to Great Britain and to the British Empire as a whole."

The first resolution is drafted for transmission to Ottawa. The second is to be sent to the representatives of the Hindus in London, who advocated their case before the British authorities, and to the United India League, and Canadian Indian committee, which is working toward the desired end.

Accidentally, perhaps, but with very marked effect on the meeting there were present the members of the one Hindu family in Vancouver by special act of grace. The tall, quiet, husky, a fine-looking man, carried his baby daughter into the hall, and beside him walked his wife, attired in spotless white Indian dress.

Summing up the meeting in English, the president, one of Vancouver's leading Hindus, told of the efforts of the Hindus for five or six years to gain the right of admission to Canada as British subjects for their wives and children. He thought it poor economic policy for Canada to prefer the continuation of a system by which the Hindu workers and wage earners here send home a large proportion of their earnings to support the families they would willingly have with them in British Columbia. The claim made by opponents of the admission of Hindu families to the effect that the climate is unsuitable for them, the president declared to be disproved by actual statistics.

At present the mortality amongst Vancouver Hindus is but seven per 1,000 as compared with 12 or 14 per 1,000 for the white people. "That if the right sought by the Hindus to have their families admitted to Canada is much longer refused the Hindu nation as a whole will retaliate in manner unpleasant for Canadians in India, was hinted by the speaker. He suggested that disregard of such demands made by sections of the old great empires of the world, demands rooted deep in human instincts, had brought about the downfall of those old empires, and might do the same again even for the British Empire."

Strongly sympathizing with the struggle of the Hindus to have their rights as British subjects, R. C. Campbell-Johnston addressed the meeting. His speech was vigorous, and whether wholly understood or not by the Hindu audience, was applauded.

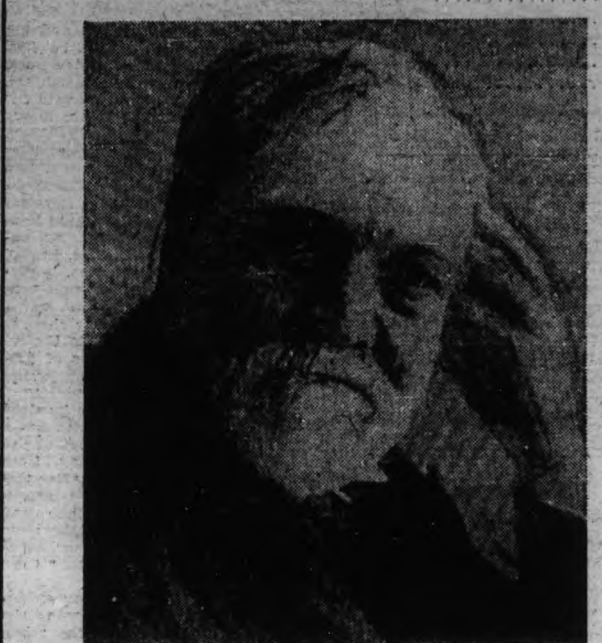

"Canada has had the presumption to say to you," he said, "that you are not to have your wives and families beside you, and to say that even such men of your race who have taken their degrees at Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh universities are not fit to associate with the people who are inhabiting British Columbia and Canada, not mentally the equal of those who are pouring into this country."

This is not British; it is parochial, unbecomingly unworthy of a British dominion."

Mr. Campbell-Johnston referred to the official welcoming by Sir Richard McBride and his representatives of Chinese commercial representatives on board the Empress of Russia, as in curious contrast to the attitude of Canada and the McBride administration toward the Hindu British subjects here, and said further: "Last night at the German Club Dr. F. B. Vrooman had the audacity to parcel out this continent amongst the English, the Americans and the Germans. I cannot congratulate Dr. Vrooman on his imperial policy."

TARIFF BILL FOR CAUCUS THIS WEEK

Graduated Tax on Tobacco as Amendment Rejected by Senate Committee

Washington, D. C., June 16.—After six weeks of work on the Underwood tariff bill, Democratic leaders of the senate have nearly completed their task and will have the revised measure ready for the party caucus some day this week. Majority members of the finance committee met to-day to begin consideration of the sub-committee's report of the agricultural schedule. Schedules remaining to be approved are the sundries, silk and free list, and the committee also has yet to act on the income tax and administrative sections.

A graduated tax on tobacco as an amendment to the tariff bill was unanimously rejected to-day by the majority members of the senate finance committee, who voted down Senator Hitecock's amendment suggested by Attorney-General McReynolds. The committee approved placing livestock and grains on the free list with a countervailing duty, except oats, which remain dutiable at 10 cents a bushel and oatmeal at 33 cents a hundred pounds. Citrus fruits were unchanged.

Approval has been given the transfer to the free list of iron and steel raw materials with an estimated dutiable value of more than $600,000 a year. This increased the senate's additions to the Underwood free list to an aggregate annual loss of $1,000,000 in revenue, making the total estimated annual revenue loss from the free list about $27,000,000.

EXCESSIVE HEAT AT CHICAGO IS RECORDED

Five Deaths Attributed Indirectly to Weather Conditions To-day and Increased Infant Illness.

Chicago, June 16.—The records of the local weather bureau show only three days in June as hot as to-day when at 2 p. m. the mercury in the comparatively cool observatory registered a decimal over 98 degrees. There was one day in June, 1872, and two in June, 1911, when the heat was equally intense. Five deaths to-day were attributed to the weather, and there were numerous prostrations.

The county board scheduled a meeting to discuss a proposition to furnish free ice to the poor. The health department reported a sharp increase in illness among infants.

Livestock in transit over the blistered plains of the west and southwest suffered intensely, the closely herded hogs in particular.

ADDRESS TO EMPEROR FROM PEACE SOCIETY

General Holiday Observed To-day Throughout Germany on Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

EMPHASIS IS PLACED ON PEACEFUL REIGN

Kaiser Responds With Hope That Present Conditions Will Last for Similar Period

ANDREW CARNEGIE IS SOCIETY'S SPOKESMAN

Berlin, June 16.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Emperor William to the imperial throne was celebrated to-day throughout the German Empire as a general holiday. The commemoration, which had been deferred from its actual date out of respect to the memory of the Emperor's father, Frederick, coincides with the forty-second anniversary of the triumphal return of his grandfather at the head of his victorious army after the Franco-Prussian war, and was naturally marked by considerable military display.

Emphasis, however, was laid on the peaceful aspects of the Emperor's quarter-century reign, the industrial and civil developments and the material prosperity of the country.

The presentation of an address from the American Peace Society by Andrew Carnegie, R. S. Brooks, of St. Louis, and J. C. Schmidtlapp, of Cincinnati, gave the Emperor an opportunity of bringing out this aspect of the occasion. He responded to Andrew Carnegie's congratulation on the completion of his 25 years peaceful reign with an emphatic "I hope we shall have 25 years more of peace."

The address presented by the society through Mr. Carnegie was in part as follows:

"His Imperial Majesty the German Emperor:
"On behalf of organizations and societies which represent the effort of American citizens of every section, voice and race, to advance the cause of civilization, we venture to express to Your Imperial Majesty our congratulations on a reign notable in countless ways, in none more so than in the maintenance of 25 years of unbroken peace between Germany and other nations of the world."

"The memorable words of Your Majesty shortly after ascending the throne, 'the peace of my country is sacred to me,' came both from the head and from the heart. Sacred indeed, the peace, the order and prosperity of the German people have been. More than once during the last 25 years it has been the high privilege of Your Majesty not only to exercise peaceful forbearance, but to inspire it in others."

"We beg to tender our thanks to Your Imperial Majesty for what you have done to prevent war and to advance the coming of the day when there shall be peace on earth to men of good will."

"We congratulate Your Majesty on the notable advance made by Germany in every field of human effort during your peaceful, prosperous and civilizing reign. Long may it continue unbroken."

HUNDRED THOUSAND BURGLAR IS GUILTY

Owen D. Conn Awaits Sentence for Many Robberies in Large American Cities.

San Francisco, June 16.—Owen D. Conn, known as "the $100,000 burglar," pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary in the superior court this morning, and will receive sentence. Conn's plea brings to an end a sensational story of successful crime, stretching from Chicago to Los Angeles and up the Pacific coast to this and nearby cities, and covering a period of two years, during which time Conn, according to his own confession, in broad daylight looted homes of over $100,000 worth of valuables.

At the time of his capture, Conn had stored in his room in a fashionable hotel here jewelry valued at over $50,000, most of which he had stolen in California cities. He had posed as a theatrical man, and had lived in highly-respectable localities.

PRINCE OF WALES IS CAPTURED BY ENEMY

London, June 16.—The Prince of Wales, who is serving as a private in the officers' training corps, which is out for annual practice near Aldershot, was taken prisoner during the sham manoeuvres on Saturday. He also had his pockets searched.

The prince was sent on scout duty from the manoeuvres near camp on Friday. He was ambushed and captured by the "enemy," and had his rifle and cartridges taken from him. He was also searched for dispatches.

The prince was jollied by his captors, who did not recognise him. He was, however, rescued shortly by his own forces.

DR. DANEFF FORMS SERVIAN CABINET

Demobilization Matters Now Occupying Bulgaria and Other Balkan Disputants

Belgrade, June 16.—The Servian cabinet, of which M. Pasitch was premier and minister of foreign affairs, resigned yesterday. Dr. S. Daneff, who was head of the peace delegation at London, has formed a new cabinet, he taking the portfolio of minister of foreign affairs.

M. Kovatcheff, the former commander of the Rhodope army, is minister of war; T. Theodoroff retains the portfolio of minister of finance, and Michael Midaroff, the Bulgarian minister at London, is appointed minister of the interior.

Sofia, June 16.—The Bulgarian government has replied to the Servian invitation for demobilization, urging in effect that the allies adopt the Bulgarian arbitration proposal. Bulgaria, the note adds, is ready for simultaneous demobilization, but suggests that in order to prevent further attempts at pressure, it is necessary that the contested districts should be occupied by mixed garrisons.

The Greek government has submitted to Bulgaria a proposal for demobilization similar to that proposed by Servia.

REBELS VICTORIOUS IN MEXICAN FIGHTING

Demand Surrender of San Luis Potosi; Federals Killed at Sansillo

Mexico, City, June 16.—The rebels have demanded the surrender of the town of San Luis Potosi, the key to communication with Tampico and the oil fields. There are said to be 4,000 rebels between San Luis Potosi and Sanitillo and to the east and northeast. Practically all of Tamaulipas, with the exception of Tampico, is at the mercy of the rebels.

General Blanquet, the new minister of war, has promised to protect San Luis Potosi, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas. Durango has been under siege for twenty days, and the inhabitants have been reduced to dire straits. An expedition in the state of Campeche, headed by the governor, Manuel Brito, is giving the federal government some concern.

There are rumors of further changes in the cabinet. According to the report, Rodolfo Reyes, minister of justice, is slated for retirement.

El Paso, Tex., June 16.—Six hundred federals were killed or wounded in a battle at Sansillo, Mex., according to reports reaching here today from Southern Chihuahua state. After this victory over 1,200 federals and insurgents, under Generals Villa, Chao and Hernandez, marched toward the state capital. They are reported as having taken, Cusuhitriche, a mining town west of Chihuahua City.

The 400 federals, who Friday evacuated Matamoros, were met yesterday by Villa's men at Bustillos. The rebels pouring a hot fire into the rebel troop train, killing the engineer and his man. General Mercado, being military governor, has called in all outlying garrisons to the defence of the capital. The insurgents are manoeuvring to prevent these movements.

Practically every railway line in the state is out of commission as a result of rebel activity. The Mexican Northern railway is operating below the border only as far as Casas Grandes. A repair train bearing 200 federal infantry is stranded between burned bridges north of Chihuahua. The only armed force of consequence in the Casas Grandes district is led by Col. Nogales, Ariz., June 16.—The advance of General Ojeda's federal troops north of Guaymas, was checked, in fighting Saturday, said advisers from official insurgent sources. It was said that General Ojeda's state troops made a flank movement, encountering the federals below Ortiz and capturing 350 men.

SERBIAN MONARCH TO WRITE MEMOIRS

King Peter Will Give Own Version of Tragedy Which Gave Him Throne

London, June 16.—Publishers who of late seem to have become crazed for memoirs by members of royal families, which involve other royal personages, have failed completely to persuade the Emperor Kuenen to provide them with what would have been the most interesting volume of all.

Every possible effort, direct and indirect, has been brought to bear on the aged Emperor to persuade him to give his reminiscences to the world. Members of his household who are confident in his confidence and even near relatives acting on the stimulus of the publishers have been trying, even within the last few days, to persuade her that it is an obligation which she owes to posterity to give out these reminiscences. But in each case the Emperor kindly but firmly dismissed the suggestion.

One publisher did not abandon hope until this week. His last hope was a favorite niece of the Emperor who made a special visit to Farnborough to make a final endeavor to persuade her aunt to write her memoirs. This also failed, and the publishers have given up hope.

Another royal author, however, is expected to come forth this fall in the person of King Peter of Serbia, who has diplomatically hinted, through a third party, to several prominent publishers, that he is not averse to writing his memoirs. It is known that he seriously wishes to do this, mainly for the purpose of giving the world his own version of the tragedy which placed him on his blood stained throne. He feels that in book form he could justify his own conduct and clear his own reputation. He could also demonstrate the development and progress of Serbia since he became King. The Serbian monarch, however, is still hesitating as to whether it would be more advisable to become an author under his own name or entrust the writing to his memoirs to another, at the same time allowing it to be understood that the book is authoritative.

Of direct American interest is "The Court of Dom Pedro II. of Brazil," which Eveleigh Nash will publish early in 1914. The book is now in preparation. It will deal with the Brazilian court largely in a jocular vein, frankly terming it the "funniest royal court in the world, with its negro and half-breed 'counts.'" But, on the other hand, the author asserts that he has had access to hitherto secret documents which throw a new light on the personalities in the affairs of the short-lived empire.

Countess Laritch, revelling in the sensation created by her autobiography, "My Past," in which she insists that Archduke John of Austria, who assumed the name of John Orth, is still alive, and tells about the scandal surrounding the suicide of Ludwig II.

She hopes to follow up her success by dealing with the court of Bavaria. She has told her publisher that she intends to begin to write in September, having already marshalled her material. She indicates in the outline sent to the publisher that she will tell the full story of the madness and tragedy in that little kingdom.

ELEVEN KILLED IN N. Y. WHEN SUBWAY CAVES IN

New York, June 16.—Eleven workmen were killed and two injured, one possibly fatally, Saturday night, when tons of rock and earth crashed down in the excavation being made for the new subway. The accident occurred eighty feet below the surface. A blast had been made about forty-five minutes before the collapse came, but it was the opinion of the coroner's physician that a belated support jarred loose when a car filled with stone and earth collided with it, was responsible for the accident.

Twelve men escaped from the tunnel uninjured.

MORNING POST NOW BELONGS TO ASTOR

Multimillionaire Pays Million Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand for Journal

London, June 16.—A sensation was created in Fleet street Saturday night when it became known that William Waldorf Astor, expatriated American multimillionaire, had purchased "The Morning Post," which for many years has been regarded as the leading London society organ and has been sought after by several prominent newspaper publishers. The price paid is said to have been $1,250,000.

Mr. Astor is already the owner of "The Pall Mall Gazette," one of the leading afternoon papers of London, and of "The Observer," which holds the front rank among the Sunday publications. "The Morning Post" was for many years owned by Lord Glenesk, who died four years ago, leaving the newspaper to his daughter, Lady Bathurst, from whom Mr. Astor purchased it.

Mr. Astor has been trying for a long time to obtain a morning newspaper to aid him in reaching the peerage, to which he has aspired for many years. It was said by newspaper men here to-night that by acquiring "The Morning Post," Mr. Astor has obtained control of the third of the three most influential publications in the United Kingdom. All of these publications represent the Conservative party.

Among the various publishers who sought to purchase "The Morning Post" was Lord Northcliffe, who, before he acquired control of "The Times," is said to have made Lord Glenesk a liberal offer for the paper. Lord Glenesk accepted the offer, but specified that the price must be paid in pennies stacked on the doorstep of his town house, this being his polite way of declining the offer.

John T. Garvin, now editor of "The Pall Mall Gazette" and "The Sunday Observer," will become editor of "The Post" and will retain his position on the "Observer."

The official announcement of the change of ownership will not be made for several days.

BULLION UNCLAIMED FOR YEARS WORRIES M'ADOO

Secretary of Treasury Has $740 Worth of Gold and Silver Held in Trust

Washington, June 16.—Uncle Sam has $740, or its equivalent in gold and silver, that he knows not what to do with. Of this sum $610.13 is in the San Francisco mint and represents bullion left by followers of the forty-miners who never came back to claim it. The balance is in the assay office at New York in the form of $189.90 in silver bullion left for exchange for bars and never called for.

Secretary McAdoo, asked Comptroller Downey if this bullion, or its equal, might not be conveyed into the treasury to ease the endless book-keeping of carrying it year after year. Comptroller Downey decided that unless the secretary takes the bull by the horns and takes arbitrary action on his own initiative, it cannot be done, as there is no authority in law. In San Francisco, J. H. Peters deposited $127.87 in gold bullion in 1884; Joseph Baker has in his credit $333.39 deposited in 1880, and J. H. Southern has $151.96. None of this has ever been called for. The silver bullion in the New York assay office was left in 1888 by Thomas P. Davis and never called for. At that time it was valued at a dollar an ounce. Now it is worth only 60 cents an ounce.

TANK CAR CRASHES INTO WAITING ROOM

Three Injured at Viger When Side of Building Is Rammed by Oil Train.

Montreal, June 16.—Three men were injured, damage to the extent of several thousands of dollars was done, and a number of fatalities were narrowly averted last night when a tank car filled with coal tar broke loose from an engine on a heavy grade and crashed into the Viger station. The car rammed through the side of the building into the waiting room where many people were awaiting outgoing trains.

Alfred Gadeoury, 22 years old, was taken to Notre Dame hospital suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, general contusion and internal injuries. His condition is serious. Two others were taken to the hospital suffering from contusions, but later were removed to their homes.

The car partially overturned in the centre of the waiting room, bespattering the interior with the black liquid.

ENGLISH LITERATURE NOW READ IN CHINA

London, June 16.—According to the recent report of a society for the propagation of Christian literature in China, sundry English works have been translated into Chinese during the past twelve months.

According to a Chinese resident of London one of the most widely read authors is John Mill in the translation by Dr. Yen Fuh, the scholarly style of which appeals to Chinese readers of fine taste. Adam Smith is another British economist whose works are read in China. Shakespeare, however, is not popular, and Byron, Scott, Dickens and Thackeray possess no appeal to the Chinaman. The works that have the widest circulation are students' science text books, in which the matter rather than the manner is the chief object.

GERMANS CELEBRATE ROYAL ANNIVERSARY

Many at Vancouver Banquet
Saturday Night Where Closer Friendship is Urged

Vancouver, June 15.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of Emperor William's accession to the Imperial throne of Germany was right royally celebrated by the German Club of Vancouver Saturday night when a banquet was held. Many of the leading Germans in the city and province were present and the occasion was graced by the presence of Premier McBride, Mayor Bakker, several consuls, the heads of local military bodies and many others. The post-prandial oratory was of a very high order, several speeches being delivered, amongst them being an address by Sir Richard McBride, Alvo von Alvensleben, president of the German Club, and Dr. F. B. Vrooman. The keynote of most of the speeches was that a better knowledge of each other would lead to a closer friendship between the British and German nations.

An interesting incident of the function was the sending of a cablegram to Emperor William congratulating him on his twenty-fifth anniversary of his rule. This was sent in the name of the German and British citizens of the province at the suggestion of Mr. von Alvensleben.

A. T. van Etaling, the German consul, presided, and at the head table were seated the Premier, Mr. von Alvensleben, Mayor Bakker, H. H. Stevens, M. P., Consul Carl Loewenberg, of Victoria; Col. J. Duff-Stewart, Col. Woranop and Col. Edward Leckie. Among the other prominent guests were Consul Hort, Consul S. Gindsbarger, Jas. Findlay, Col. Hombie, Col. MacDonald, Consul McQuillan, Consul von Roggen, Baron Alfred von Schluga, Consul Shirjuen, and Dr. Vrooman.

"The King" was proposed by the chairman. It was received with much enthusiasm, and the singing of the National Anthem. This was followed by a toast to Emperor William. Dr. F. B. Vrooman in the course of his speech said: "The first great step toward world peace is, from our point of view, the better consolidation of the British Empire; the second step is a closer fusion of the Anglo-Saxon peoples, and the third step is the amalgamation of all brethren in the Germanic race."

"To this end, let their diplomatic representatives sit together at the round table. Let them spread out a map of the world. Let them respect the rights of all mankind, study this map and its empty places. What will they find? They will find that there is but one space left in the temperate zone large and rich enough for the ambitions of the German race. There is one space which is not already occupied and developed by efficient people. That space is in South Brazil. At the present moment the Monroe Doctrine seems to stand in the way of its occupation."

"Let Uncle Sam and John Bull and Unser Fritz talk this over. Let Uncle Sam say at once that this Monroe Doctrine is a good thing, but like everything else in the world that is a living thing, it is subject to change. Let us change it a little. Instead of a Monroe Doctrine which will keep us from a race as there is in the world out of South America, let us adjust it so that that race may move in, with its glorious civilization. Let us say, and let us all agree in saying, that there shall be a new Monroe Doctrine, which shall not keep Europe off from this hemisphere, but which shall keep Asia off from this hemisphere, and let the bargain be struck in a new Dreihund."

"Let the United States assure Germany of a policy of 'Hands Off' that side of the equator on this hemisphere, let Germany assure Great Britain and the United States of 'Hands Off' as to their status quo, and let them all interlock for mutual defence, not merely of the lands of their fathers, but for the protection of the white man's standard of living and the civilization of Christendom which are threatened by a billion people of the unassimilable races of mankind."

"Let us never forget that the future belongs to the organized races of mankind; that those races are to be supreme, in time to come, which own the soil and rule the sea. Let them remember that 'blood is thicker than water' and that all the great interests of the Teutonic people are one."

NEW YORK SOCIETY SHOCKS OMAHA GIRL

land, a young society girl from Omaha, who with her sister, Mrs. Howard Wood, is staying at the Waldorf-Astoria, is shocked at the appearance of average New York girls.

"Really," she said, "the unnatural appearance of the girls one sees on Fifth avenue and generally around this city is shocking. Girls of 15 and 16 years make liberal use of powder, rouge stick and lip salve."

"It seems to me a most deplorable sign. Why do they do it? Is it considered smart? Do they think it makes them better looking? I have been in New York a week, and I haven't seen a real fresh young face since I have been here. This town is crazy—just downright crazy. That is the only expression I can find for it."

ARMORED TRAIN IN COAL MINER'S STORY

Senator Martine Declares Testimony Has Brought Out Unbelievable Condition

Charleston, W. Va., June 15.—The trial of what the striking coal miners dubbed the "Death Special"—the armored train that traversed the Paint and Cabin Creeks bituminous coal fields of West Virginia for months—was followed to-night by the senate strike investigating committee.

Senator Martine, of New Jersey, who presided to-day, made the following statement to-night:

"In my opinion, the testimony brought out in the last two days proves that feudalism of the darkest dye exists in the West Virginia coal fields. A condition unbelievable and shameful to the country is indicated."

For the first time since "Chicago" and "counter-charges" have been made regarding responsibility for killings, an operator was named to-night as having participated in one of the battles. He was Quinn Morton, millionaire, one of the most prominent men in the field. Lee Calvin, who swore he was on the armored train that shot up Holly Grove, not only testified that Morton was on the car, but said that after the shooting Morton ordered the train backed up again so that "they could give them another round."

This direct charge threw the committee and counsel for the operators into an uproar, which was complicated when Senator Martine, in demanding from the witness what manner of a man Morton was, was accused of bias and prejudicing the case by Attorney Jackson for the operators.

"I'll produce Morton before you," shouted Jackson. "Quinn Morton is one of the most reputable citizens of this state and will refute this damned lie, and you should not condemn a man before he is heard."

Calvin, formerly a mine guard, testified that he was engaged as a deputy sheriff for a trip up the creek on the "Death Special" and swore positively that the first shot was fired from the rapid-fire gun on the train. He swore that he and his associate deputies were warned not to stop to raise the windows, but to blaze away through glass and that not more than four shots were fired from the car of the miners in return. He alleged that the rapid-fire gun fire and the rifle volleys from the dark armored train continued from the time the camp was reached until it had been passed.

Attorneys for Sheriff Bonnerhill and the operators spent a good part of the night session in cross-examining Calvin and he will be recalled on Monday for further grilling. One man was killed in this fight and others wounded. Mrs. Annie Hall told a graphic story of a night of terror. On the night of February 7, she said, she put her three young children to bed. Her two elder sons and the father were in another room of the three-room shack at Holly Grove she called home.

"My sister was dying," she said, "and I was expecting a call to her bedside. So I lay down alongside my babies with my clothes on. Suddenly out of the night there came the noise of guns firing. I jumped up, pulled the children out of bed and told them to get in to the fireplace while I got in front of them. A bullet came all the way through the house and hit me in the foot, and I will be crippled the rest of my life. But the babies were not hurt, thank God."

The committee sat until after 11 o'clock to-night trying to complete the miners' side of the case, and most of the witnesses were along the same general trend.

William Buzzard related how a strikebreaker who refused to obey the order of a mine guard in a passenger train to sit down was shot by the guard.

FIVE MILES OF SHIPS TO GREET KING GEORGE

London, June 15.—Nearly five miles of merchant shipping, composed of all kinds of vessels from great trans-Atlantic liners to the little tugs which nose them into their berths, will greet King George and Queen Mary when the royal couple pay their state visit to the city and port of Liverpool on July 11.

Since his accession to the throne, the King has visited practically every part of the United Kingdom, taking as he does a keen interest in the great industries of his country. He has been down coal mines and through the great steel and iron works and other factories that bring prosperity to England. His next visit is to Lancashire, from which county he derives his title of Duke of Lancaster, and where he owns great estates. It is to inspect the cotton mills, factories and commerce of England's most populous county, however, that he intends to spend a week there in July.

LAFOLLETTE TAKES UP PUGILISM AS TRAINING

Washington, June 15.—Senator LaFollette, the scrappy Wisconsin member, is learning, literally, to live up to his nickname of "Fighting Bob." He is being taught pugilism—for physical culture, however, he insists.

LaFollette is "putting on the gloves" an hour each morning. The boxing instructor at the Y. M. C. A. is punching the senator around and teaching him the latest style in uppercuts. "I find it is doing me a world of good," LaFollette said. "I've taken off about twenty pounds already. See how my 'front' is going down?"

Can You Judge the Value of a Garment Without Seeing It?

Of course, you have the intelligence and the ability to select a style from an illustration. Even then, the "hang"—the fit—may be, and generally is, only the illustrator's fancy.

And many women of the penny wise and pound foolish type, are daily experiencing with bitter disappointment the fact that they cannot trust to pictures and papers from miles away if they want to be dressed as other smart women, and therefore it is necessary to see the garments and try them on.

So we invite you to inspect our magnificent range of stylish Suits, Coats and Wraps. Inspect it carefully; see to it that the lines are quite correct; look at the materials, the linings and the tailoring, the minor details, especially the quality of workmanship throughout—and then judge the value and probabilities of satisfaction you will get.

Our garments may cost you more than the cheap garment catalogues—but

TIBETANS DRIVE THE CHINESE FORCE BACK

London, June 15.—While China has been beset by her great neighbors in the north and has been on the verge of bankruptcy, she has nevertheless found the time and means to continue to wage her war against the Tibetans of Eastern Tibet, and this in face of the protests of Great Britain.

Early this year the Tibetans succeeded in driving back the Chinese forces, capturing their rifles and mountain guns, and established themselves in a strong position. The Chinese have, however, not been discouraged by this reverse, and a stronger army, with better guns, is advancing from Szechuan towards the Tibetan stronghold. Great Britain's protest against this advance has been flouted by the Chinese government, and to-day England is demanding the withdrawal of all Chinese troops from Tibetan territory as the price of recognition of the republic.

GERMAN FIRM SECURES CONTRACT FROM CHILE

Berlin, June 15.—A German electrical firm, competing with American concerns in the same business, has just carried off a $3,000,000 contract for an electrical plant in Chile, to be constructed with American capital. This contract covers only the first installations, and the German concern will be on the ground for further extensions which are expected ultimately to amount to several million dollars more.

The plant is that of an American exploitation company, which foresees a great development of the west coast of South America after the opening of the Panama canal, and is preparing to work copper deposits in Northern Chile. The first contract covers the construction of a main electrical station on the coast and a secondary station, 125 miles distant, to which the power is to be transmitted on a high-tension circuit.

RAINBOW AND NIOBE.

The Rainbow and Niobe are being dismantled, and the officers are about to return to England. The abandonment of the two training ships clearly confirms our contention that Mr. Borden will not countenance a Canadian Navy on the Australian plan, and that his permanent policy can be none other than a contribution to the admiralty. Otherwise he can have no permanent policy at all. There are only two alternatives, and against one he has already determinedly set his face. It is difficult to understand his attitude. He says there is an emergency; that the empire is threatened, etc., and yet he is unwilling to take the chance of an appeal to the people on this most important issue. The fact that he is not even attempting a plebiscite which would not affect the security of his party in office shows that he knows he has not the people behind him on his policy. Then what right has he to abandon a policy that was the product of a unanimous parliament, and insist upon ramming through a measure which every responsible Canadian statesman since Confederation has vigorously opposed, an opposition that has always been endorsed by the Canadian people?

Why does Mr. Borden not act under the Naval Service Act of 1910, now on the statute books? Under this measure he can order the construction of as many battleships as he pleases and wherever he pleases, placing money in the estimates from year to year to pay for them as the work proceeds. This is the common practice in the case of large government works. All the money is not voted in one year. We cannot believe he missed this important point. He is evidently bent upon removing from the field of possibility anything that looks like a Canadian Naval policy, anything that gives to the Canadian people control over their own expenditures. Otherwise he would have done as Sir George Ross pointed out it was possible to do under the legislation of 1910. He is determined to contribute to the Gibraltar squadron, and blindly ignore the necessities of naval protection on this coast.

GERMANY AND SOUTH AMERICA.

In an interesting speech at the banquet in Vancouver on Saturday night in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Kaiser's accession to the German throne, Dr. F. B. Vrooman, who has devoted some study to international politics, gave prominence to a plan which many believe would form an excellent basis for a rapprochement between the Anglo-Saxon and German nations. Briefly it is that the United States and Great Britain maintain a neutral attitude should Germany desire territorial expansion in South America. Already there are considerable settlements of Germans in Brazil, and if they succeeded in establishing there the Imperial authority in the form of a protectorate, Dr. Vrooman would have the two Anglo-Saxon nations bestow upon it their benediction.

This would mean the end of the Monroe Doctrine, which regards the further establishment of any foreign authority in the western hemisphere as inimical to the welfare and security of the United States. Aimed originally at Russia at the instigation of the British foreign office, it has been tacitly accepted by the great powers, who have sedulously refrained from grabbing any of the rich, but weakly governed, countries of South America. Although the Monroe Doctrine has been invoked against Great Britain herself, in the Venezuela case for instance, it has been generally recognized that in its enforcement the United States would have the support of the British nation. There is no doubt that if these two powers adopted a neutral stand the German flag would soon be flying over a substantial area in lower America.

This would mean the extinction of a free and sovereign nationality, and if it were accomplished by international arrangement the assenting powers would be accessories in a high-handed grab. It could not be justified except under the law that might be right and the oblique dictum that the end justifies the means. But we must bear in mind that the United States would be a very largely territorial aggrandizement ever since one nation became strong enough to grab from another. Great Britain herself has not been excessively scrupulous in extending her empire, but she bestowed upon the annexed and conquered territories the blessings of a higher civilization, and the world has been the richer.

If the arrangement suggested by Dr. Vrooman were entered into South America would soon be a brilliantly variegated domain. Every great power would follow with its dash of color, just a touch or a big dab, according to its capacity and opportunities. The African situation would be duplicated with precision and infinitely more zeal. Germany would have southern Brazil; Great Britain would quietly "protect" Argentina; Japan would desire coaling stations on the Pacific; Italy and Spain would develop a paternal interest in the Latin peoples of other sections, and in order that her security might not be imperilled by this kaleidoscopic transformation it would be necessary for the United States to make the eagle scream over Central America and the northern part of the new happy hunting ground.

All this would be highway robbery on a magnificent scale, but South America would feel an impulse that would make it one of the most marvelously productive regions on earth. There would be stability of government and credit, while the greatest cause of old world friction would disappear. But it would be a formidable task to induce the people of the United States to retreat from a position with which they are traditionally associated, and which is to them a source of considerable national pride.

WHICH SIDE WOULD CANADA TAKE?

An English newspaper—"Imperialist," of course—has been pointing out the duty of Great Britain in the event of a war between the United States and Japan as an outcome of the controversy with the state of California. The journal in question intimates that the course of the British government would be to take sides, sympathetically or actively, with out Asiatic ally against the republic. Now we do not believe there is the slightest possibility of a war between the United States and Japan. There are many reasons for this assumption, the chief one being that in such a contest the Asiatic power would not have the slightest chance of ultimate success pitted against a nation so strong in everything that makes for success as the United States. Still the academic side of the question is worth considering. And the Toronto Star gives expression to views which we believe would be the views of a great majority of Canadians, certainly of a great majority of western Canadians, in such a contingency. Our contemporary says:

"We must not help one power to the injury of our ally. But which is, or would be considered, Canada's ally, in a crisis like that?" "Blood is thicker than water and more precious than ink. A written treaty may ally all British peoples with Japan, but a veritable mesh of ties and interests unites Canada and the United States in a common understanding that would make them almost as one people in the face of an armed Oriental invasion. The Pacific coast is regarded as a white man's coast, and would by white men be defended. Statesmen could say and do all manner of wise things in a crisis of that kind, but who among us does not know that in such a war Canada would enlist in great numbers and Vancouver be as excited as Seattle? Our young men crossed the border and enlisted in the Cuban war. It was a small affair. Should this larger and altogether different affair come to pass, the neutrality of Canada would be difficult to preserve. Language, race, religion, everything, would cause our people to share in the passions and prejudices of our neighbors in such a war. The facts may as well be stated, for we all know what they are."

"The best service the British Empire can render Japan and the United States and Canada and mankind, is to use every expedient to prevent any such war as that spoken of."

Parker Williams, M. P. P., says the coal situation will be worse before it gets better. We hope the worst will be over before the winter season comes round again. But, in the event of being reduced to extremity, what is the matter with using wood for cooking and heating purposes? We have seen communities which would be overjoyed if they had the supplies right at our hand. Or, if we are wedded to coal and will not be happy until we get it, why not import coal from Australia, as we are doing with some other things that ought to be produced here in abundance? Surely the coal combine has not got as firm a grip of the government as the beef combine which charges us higher prices than it does any other community in the known world which has not been wise enough to "nip its operations in the bud." Possibly the people of British Columbia will wake up some day 'ere long to the wonderful beneficence of Tory rule. The combination at Ottawa and Victoria is giving us a splendid example of what can be accomplished by harmony in restriction and exploitation.

An American woman is suing her husband for divorce, the ground of action being that the man refused the woman protection during a thunder storm. The applicant for relief alleges that she was left in a room all alone while the battle of the elements outside waged fiercer than the most bitter of their domestic discords. A correspondent complains, no doubt with justice, of the many wrongs woman has suffered at the hands of man. Some mere man may, of course, retort that man has also suffered a trifle at the hands of woman; but when a husband refuses to protect his wife from "roaring thunder," then we admit the balance of the account is against us. Something must be done to release the ladies from the thralldom of the tyrant man. If the vote will do, they should have the vote. The probability is that not one in twenty would use it, but even a man, though a Socialist, knows of the joys that go with possession.

Our contemporary says the Oriental question should be discussed in a manner free from partisan bias. Quite so, and yet through our minds runs this little refrain: "The Conservative party stands for a white Canada, the protection of white labor and the total exclusion of Asiatics." Last month eight hundred Chinese paid the head tax to a Conservative government at Ottawa, which will divide it with a Conservative government at Victoria.

Never in its history as a resort has Elk Lake been so low at this season of the year as it is at the present time. The connection with Goldstream was not made a day too soon. We might say something about buying water from the Esquimalt company by the gallon—but "what is the use?" We might also cry, "We told you so!" But again, "what is the use?"

Saturday morning it stated they could not get men for Sooke lake, which is absolutely false, and moreover men are not wanted. Notice to that effect is placed on office door. They will not be sending men out for several weeks yet, so they stated this (Saturday) morning, when a bunch of men applied. Now to what purpose, or for what reason does the morning paper endeavor to deceive and fool the public? Is it not aware that its reputation for veracity is getting to be a byword in the community? Is it not aware that there are hundreds of white men in town who are not only willing, but ready to go out to Sooke lake or any other place where they may find honest employment? One cannot understand why a daily paper should at all times possible endeavor to deceive and give false representations to its readers. victions registered, the incidents all taking place last Thursday.

Charles O'Meara was seen at a quarter past seven that evening speeding up Yates street hill at a rate estimated by Constable William Starke at between twenty and twenty-five miles an hour. An hour later, the officer said, O'Meara was driving back, asked if he was going to be charged with speeding and admitted that he had been going up the hill at a faster rate than ten miles an hour.

O'Meara said it was impossible to go up that hill at anything like ten miles an hour. He was on a high gear, going at eighteen miles, but when he passed the constable his speed was ten miles. A fine of $20 was imposed.

Mrs. Constance Baker, of the Ritz hotel, was summoned for speeding around the corner of Douglas and Fort streets, and the chauffeur who was in the car at the time, Ray Moyer, appeared to answer to the charge.

Constable Robert Foster said he came up to the corner on his motorcycle as the car turned it. He spoke to the driver, who admitted that he was going too quickly but said he had to make time for a traveller. The car cut the corner very closely.

Moyer said it was impossible to turn the corner at a speed of ten miles. He had no speedometer but he thought the speed was seven or eight miles.

H. C. Crew, who was in the car, and W. Waddell, who was standing on the corner, corroborated the chauffeur as to the speed.

Magistrate Jay held that the evidence was in favor of the defendant. The constable had come up so quickly that he had not time to estimate the speed of the car. The case was dismissed.

Denis Hoare, for speeding on Government street, between Hillside and Bay streets, was fined $20.

The Directors of J. N. Harvey, Ltd., proprietors of the Red Arrow Clothing, Hat and Furnishing Stores of this city and Vancouver have instructed the management to turn the Victoria stock into cash in the shortest possible space of time. This decision was arrived at because the cold backward season has prevented the warm weather goods moving out as early as usual and it is this company's policy to sell all goods during the season for which they were bought. This means that three months' selling must be crowded into one and in order to do this the management have been instructed to "Cut the Prices regardless of cost for profit, and we will stand back of you." The store at 614-616 Yates Street, will be closed all day Monday arranging goods and marking prices down for the Big Sale which opens Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. To Discuss Joining City.—The executive of the Ward II. Sanitary Ratepayers' Protective Association passed the following motion unanimously at their last meeting: That this association call a public meeting of Ward II. ratepayers on Thursday, June 19, at 8 p. m., in St. Mark's hall, to discuss the advisability of Ward II. joining the city of Victoria.

Skipping Rope Competition.—The following were successful in the skipping rope exercises competition held last Friday at the Pemberton Gymnasium for the silver medal offered in the Strathcona system of physical training for this purpose: Miss Jessie Paul, of the Girls' Central school (winner of the medal); Miss Mable Winterburn, of South Park school, second; and Miss Helen Starr, of Kingston Street school, third.

Buy New Type of Desks.—Tenders for about 1,000 desks needed for the new schools which will be opening up in September have been let by the school board to the Macoy Office Equipment Company at $4.11 a desk. The desk chosen is an entirely new type with plain cast iron sides without any flange work. A small number of adjustable desks purchased were a little more ornamental, the plain ones being non-adjustable.

More New Books.—The following new books have been added to the Booklovers' Library, 201 Campbell Building, Douglas street: One Woman's Life, Robert Herrick; Monte Carlo, Mrs. de Vere Stacpoole; Mr. Wycherly's Wards, Barker; Love Conquers all Things, Applin; Havoc, Oppenheim; The Happy Family, Frank Swinnerton; The Gentleman, Ollivant; Michael Ferrys, Dela Pasture; The Open Window, Temple Thurston; Frau, J. Sketching Club Organized.—At a meeting of interested members of the Island Arts and Crafts Club held last Friday at the residence of Lady Crease, a summer sketching club was organized, and it was decided to meet weekly on alternate Wednesdays and Saturdays throughout the ensuing months in order to make sketching expeditions. The first meeting will be next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the flagstaff at the top of Beacon Hill, when the party will study the broom in the neighborhood.

Speaks on Timely Topics.—The Rev. Dr. Cameron announced to his people in the Baptist Tabernacle last evening that he would begin a series of services on timely topics next Sunday evening to which he invited special attention. These sermons would deal with matters that are now occupying the thoughts of men in Canada—indeed, throughout the world. The first of the series would deal with the question of church union, which has recently been before the General Assembly of the Presbyterians in Toronto and which created such intense interest that it was discussed by the leading men of that body for several days. The doctor promised to discuss the whole movement in its various phases, showing its importance and, also, the formidable obstacles in the way of its realization.

Police Statistics.—Last month there were 296 cases dealt with in the police court, 249 on arrest and 47 on summons. Of these five were sent for trial in a higher court, 44 were dismissed and convictions were recorded in 247 cases. THE JOY OF GIVING.

Who's never known the Joy of Giving
Has never known the Bliss of Living
It matters not the style of gift,
A bit of gold to ease some shift,
Or just a smile, a sunny rift,
Of sympathy, some care to lift
From shoulders "Sorrow" and "Sorrow"
Some little act befriending:
A gentle whack
Upon the back
To hearten up some troubled wight
Whose steps have wandered from the light;
These all are gifts well worth the giving
For those who seek the Joy of Living.
Just go some day
Upon the quiet
Out on the way,
My friend, and TRY IT!

LADIES OF MACABEES ATTEND SERVICES

Rev. Wm. Stevenson Sketches History of Organization at Emmanuel Baptist Church

Nearly one hundred members of the Ladies of the Macabees were present yesterday morning for the special annual services held in their honor at Emmanuel Baptist church. Mrs. Cochenour, head of the local organization, leading the procession, which on entering the church took possession of the seats especially set aside for their use, and marked off with the Macabees' colors, black, red and white. The banner of the Supreme Hive covered the reading desk, while the flag of the Macabees and the Union Jack were draped on the side walls of the church.

Rev. William Stevenson, who preached the sermon, welcomed the ladies to the church, and expressed the purpose of the day, which, he said, was to honor some of the departed comrades. The preacher called special attention to the loss by the organization during the year just passed of Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, whose passing had been felt not only by the Macabees, but by the whole community and province with which her name would be associated through all history.

Preaching from the text: "A wise woman buildeth her house, but a foolish woman pulleth it down with her hands," Mr. Stevenson explained the foundation of the order, which, he said, had taken the name of an ancient Jewish family that had struggled for freedom in faith and worship, liberty, both religious and political, in the second century before Christ. This family had seen in the attack upon their religion an attack upon their home, and was also a mutual benefit society. The organization recognized the place which woman had or should have in modern community life, at the root of this being the idea of the identity of interests among families and the securing of liberty. The woman's movement of today, emphasized the speaker, were indication of the larger place which woman was about to take in the life of the community after a long period of subjection during which her finer nature had been suppressed. Now she was about to take her place, and it would be impossible for any combination to arrest the onward movement.

In the afternoon the ladies paraded in a body to the cemetery at Ross Bay and decorated the graves of their fallen comrades, including those of the late Agnes Deans Cameron, Mrs. A. D. Macneil, Mrs. Chas. Hayward and Mrs. Higgins.

WILL SURRENDER MANTELS.

Major Dupont Yields Point in City's Action; Council to Consider It To-night.

Major Dupont has notified the city that he will surrender the mantel pieces he removed from the house in Stadacona park, which he sold to the city. The solicitor is reporting to the council to-night that the city can compel the return of the electric light globes but cannot force Major Dupont to surrender the chandeliers. The mantels are the most valuable articles which the city is suing for and it is possible that the action may be dropped.

Victorian Graduates.—Among the thirty-six graduates at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., just announced, was Cadet Matthews, of this city.

Ceremonies Continued.—There will be a supper at 6.30 and a public meeting at 8 o'clock in the new Congregational church this evening in continuation of the opening ceremonies. Sir Richard McBride, Rev. Robert Cornhill in behalf of the Ministerial Association, George Bell, president of the Y. M. C. A., and one of the aldermen will be the speakers, while there will be special music by the choir and reports and speeches by the officers of the church.

Stole Blankets.—Edward Moss, who has a record of a suspended sentence against him, was sent to jail to-day for three months for stealing three blankets, the property of Reuben C. Corbett. The blankets disappeared from the Royal Arms hotel, where Corbett and his son live, and were offered for sale by Moss, who gave the name of Moore, at Henry Stern's second hand shop. Detectives MacDonald and Siciliano arrested Moss in the Lighthouse saloon, where he was drinking with part of the proceeds.

Must Pay for Safe.—In county court to-day Judge Lampman heard the suit of the Taylor Safe Company vs. the Strathcona Hotel Company, action being taken to recover the value of a safe supplied the proprietors of the hotel by the company. The claim of the defendants was that the safe ordered was to be one for hotel purposes, in the sense of having special safe deposit compartments for the protection of the valuables of guests, but that the safe supplied was not suitable. Evidence was given as to this point on both sides, ending in his honor giving the plaintiff company judgment for the amount of its claim. C. B. S. Phelps acted for the plaintiffs and A. W. Milligan for the defendants.

ALGERINE WILL TAKE BEHRING SEA PATROL

Such is Expectation of Officers; Wait Formal Arrangements

Although there are a number of formalities to be respected, there is little doubt now that the sloop of war Algerine will be commissioned next month to carry out the Behring Sea patrol. She recently returned from a long cruise to the South Sea Islands, after visiting South America, and as soon as the usual exchanges have taken place between the different governments, the officers of the Algerine expect the sloop will be sent north, as the Rainbow will be out of commission.

She is in a position to get away in a very brief space of time as soon as the formal notification comes, and the expectation is that the vessel will leave in the second week of July. There will be a few changes in the officers before she is again commissioned, one or two being relieved, new men taking their places.

For the first time since the Shearwater arrived from Central America two weeks ago, she was able to go up to berth in the harbor to-day, as meanwhile she has been in the stream, waiting for a place. The navy yard wharf was required by the Canadian Arctic expedition vessel Karluk, and the Algerine was at the coal depot. With the removal of the Karluk, the Shearwater moved up to the navy yard.

H. M. C. S. Rainbow is in drydock, and the shelving sides of the bottom are being scraped carefully. It is expected she will occupy the drydock for some time in the overhaul.

VISITING PRESIDENT IS PLEASED WITH CITY

Greatly impressed with the city, the president of the Canadian Express Company, John Pullen, and Mrs. Pullen, of Montreal, paid a visit to the capital yesterday, during which they were shown around by the local representatives of the Grand Trunk railway, the controlling interest in the express company.

Mr. and Mrs. Pullen were accompanied by N. J. Ross, the superintendent of the express company, of Winnipeg, and they were met by C. F. Earle, city passenger agent, and James McArthur, dock agent, who took them for an automobile tour of the city, in which they had an opportunity of seeing the city under most delightful auspices. Mrs. Pullen was pleased greatly with the expense of the trip, and Mr. Pullen also expressed his pleasure to be here. He is on a combined business and holiday trip in the west, and took the occasion to see something of conditions in the most western city.

ORE STEAMER IS IN COLLISION

Chicago, June 15.—The steamer Jessie Spaulding, which was in collision on Lake Superior early yesterday with the steamer W. P. Snyder, arrived at Sault Ste. Marie to-day with her bow stove in, but with the crew safe, according to a telegram received here to-day from her captain, L. A. Garue.

The collision between the Spaulding and the Snyder took place in a dense fog. The vessels crashed together while rounding Keeweenaw Point, the Spaulding southbound and the Snyder northbound. The vessels lurched apart after the crash, and the Spaulding drifted away into the fog. The Spaulding began sounding distress signals a few moments after.

There was a fear for some time that she had sunk, but apprehensions were later removed.

SAILER IS FLOATING COLD STORAGE PLANT

Glory of the Seas Becomes Movable Freezer Outfit in Alaska

Famous as a rover of the seven seas, the Glory of the Seas, after 44 years of existence in different capacities, is to leave for Southeastern Alaska at the end of the week as a floating cold storage plant.

She is one of the finest examples of wooden ships which ever floated from the ways. The vessel, which is still in excellent condition after years of service, has been acquired by the Glacier Fisheries Company. Strangest of all in the adaptation of the vessel is the erection on the mizen mast of the deck, which gives the man at the wheel a clear view above the superstructure, covering the main deck.

She will be able to store a capacity of three million pounds of halibut, or other fish. The mechanical equipment is most elaborate, double throughout in case of an accident. All ordinary repair work can be executed, as a modern power machine shop is carried.

She has two compressors, each having a capacity of manufacturing from ten to twelve tons of ice per day, as well as freezing 60,000 pounds of fish at the same time and keeping her cold rooms down to a temperature of from 14 to 17 degrees above zero. The compressors are driven by two seventy-five horse power engines, deriving their power from two sets of boilers.

The power plant also includes a lighting set for illuminating the vessel and supplying current to her wireless apparatus. Her electrical equipment includes an elevator with a capacity of 3,000 pounds, which runs through her five decks, greatly facilitating handling operations.

For some time a large portion of the fish taken in Southeastern Alaska has been marketed in various preserved forms at a small profit. In the meantime there has been a growing demand in the world's markets for fresh fish, principally salmon and halibut. The Glory of the Seas will be towed to Todde point, Idaho inlet, icy straits district, Alaska, and will be moored during the fishing season. The company owns and operates a line of traps in the icy straits district, from which the salmon will be taken for freezing. Halibut will be purchased on the ground from the large fleet which operates in that vicinity during the summer months.

The Glory of the Seas has been employed for the last two seasons as a floating cannery, and while she served well in this capacity the decline of prices in the canned salmon business caused her owners to decide to discontinue operating her in that manner.

PREPARE CASE FOR SEALING INQUIRY

Statement for Company Will Follow Information Gathered for Commissions

Having but three weeks in which to lodge, under the sealing treaties, the claims for a share of the compensation to be distributed by the Canadian government, the directors of the Victoria Sealing Company, and the owners of outside schooners which did not belong to the company, are preparing their case for submission to the commissioner, Mr. Justice Audette, when he sits here on July 15.

The case of the sealing company will follow largely the line of the information which has been gathered for the Canadian case in connection with the international commissions which have considered the industry, and the intention is to put in shape the mass of information which the company has available for the commissioner's consideration by the commissioner.

They will be also applications put in from skippers who were formerly in the trade and are now at other vocations, and others who engaged in this romantic and exciting industry in the days before and even after regulations compelled them to abstain from further participation.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The steamship Arabian, of the Danish East Asiatic line, Capt. Wilson in command, has arrived at San Francisco, having made the distance from Antwerp here in 56 days. She looked more like a big yacht than a steamer at the dock. She had about 5,700 tons of freight for San Francisco and 3,600 tons for Seattle and Vancouver. The Arabian is a sister ship to the Kina, and was recently chartered for the Orient.

Has Canadian Pacific Bought St. George? Movements of Local Fleet

Local officials of the B. C. Coast Service of the Canadian Pacific Railway express their surprise at the report that the company has purchased in the St. George, a steamer employed in the run between Fishguard, Wales, and Rosslare, county Wexford, Ireland. No information of this purchase is yet to hand. The St. George is a triple expansion screw turbine steamer of 2454 gross tonnage, 350 feet long, and having a speed of 23 knots.

The Princess Sophia will arrive to-night from Skagway and way ports, and depart to-morrow on the morning run to Vancouver, in place of the Princess Royal, which is under inspection. The Princess Beatrice, completing her overhaul, will leave again to-night to resume her regular run. The Queen City arrived this morning from the east coast.

The Seattle steamer this afternoon brought the Royal Oaks special, organized under the auspices of the Oakland Commercial Club, a party who have been taking a tour through the various ports, particularly in connection with the Portland Rose Show. The programme of event is good enough to state that the visitors will appreciate the city with its "English customs." They leave again to-night in continuation of the tour.

COMANCHE IS LAUNCHED AT SEATTLE YARDS

The new steel steamship Comanche, built for the Inland Navigation Company, was launched at the yards of the Seattle Construction & Drydock Co. on Saturday afternoon. Miss Carolyn A. Seal, of Dungeness, a native daughter of Washington, christened her.

Miss Seal, attended by a number of young friends and by her father, C. F. Seal, and her mother, carried an immense bouquet of roses. As the Comanche started down the ways, Miss Seal spoke the words christening the craft and broke a bottle of champagne against the ship's bow.

Later J. V. Paterson, president of the company which built the Comanche, entertained 200 guests at an informal luncheon in the main office at the plant.

Joshua Green, president of the Inland Navigation Company, replying to a toast by Paterson to the success of the Comanche and its owners, said that the company owed much to Paterson and to the Seattle Construction & Drydock Company, which has built six vessels for his company, including the Kulehan, the Sioux, the Potlatch, the Tacoma and the Sol Duc.

Frank Bues, general manager of the steamship company, presented Miss Seal with a gold watch, set with diamonds and suitably engraved, as a souvenir of the occasion.

The Comanche is expressly a freight carrier, 185 feet long and 34 feet beam.

capable of developing a speed of ten nautical miles an hour. She will have a carrying capacity of upwards of 1,000 tons.

The oil tanker Trinulo passed up the Straits to-day with oil from San Francisco for Vancouver.

When the Dominion government vessel Lebro is through overhaul and inspection she will proceed to take material to the new lighthouse at Cape St. James, by way of the West Coast, where there are some calls to make with supplies.

On Wednesday afternoon the Nippon Yusen Kaisha steamer Shidzuoka Maru will show up at the outer wharf from the Orient. She has 1872 bales of silk, and 80 cases of silk goods for this port, being one of the most valuable cargoes which has been brought west on a Nippon liner for a long time. She has also a large number of passengers.

Capt. Bastarriches, master of the Chilean ship Curzon, which recently arrived at Port Gable from Valparaiso, has been ordered by its owners to proceed to Chemainus to take over the command of the Chilean ship Ivanhoe, whose master, Capt. Rottan, died on the voyage from the west coast. Mate Johnson, of the Curzon, will take over the command of that vessel.

TENDERS INVITED FOR LOBNITZ ROCK BREAKER

Another Lobnitz rock breaker is to be added to the dredging equipment of the British Columbia harbors. The superintendent of dredges, J. L. Nelson, is inviting tenders on behalf of the department for a second rock breaker similar to the one now engaged at Shoal Point.

Tenders for the breaker close on July 3. On account of the growing importance of the harbor work in this province there will be plenty of employment for a crusher of this character.

A gentleman who was no longer young, and who never was handsome, said to a child in the presence of her parents, "Well, my dear, what do you think of me?" The little girl made no reply, and the gentleman continued: "Well, won't you tell me? Why won't you?" Two little fat hands tucked the corner of a pinfold into her mouth, as she said archly in a little whisper: "Cause I don't want to get whipped!"

EXTRACT FROM "BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL" March 23, 1907

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of cod-liver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among the advantages of butter, palatable, first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. J. H. & J. W. DUKES (Dukes Food, Road, W. C.) have prepared for fifty years, is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, palatable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any preparation to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 117 per cent. of fat and 73.5 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures. Further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases. In all the principal candy stores in Victoria.

The Most Important Item in Your Home is the Range

WHY NOT HAVE THE BEST—IT'S THE CHEAPEST IN THE LONG RUN

WEILER STEEL RANGES, for burning soft coal and wood, have been specially built for burning local fuel to the best possible advantage. The fire boxes, flues and draft provisions are radically different to those usually found in steel ranges sold at a similar price.

This means a huge saving in fuel, greater benefit from the fuel burned, and makes baking and cooking conditions the best to be had.

There are many other desirable features in these ranges, and many styles, and sizes to show to you.

Why not investigate our claims before deciding what range you will have?

Weiler Gas Ranges Are a Profitable Investment

In any home where a gas service is to be had, the Weiler Gas Range will prove a great benefit. You can have a hot oven and a cool kitchen, cut your fuel bill to less than half, bake and cook at any time with success an absolute certainty, and have a more sanitary oven into the bargain.

The white enamel lined oven has removable plates that are as easy to clean as dishes.

SPORTING NEWS

TWO NEW PLAYERS WITH BEES

NORDYKE AND FELTS RELEASED

Former Manager of 1912 Team Will Umpire; Madden Arrives; New First Baseman Signed

The Bees take the field today with their new outfielder, T. Madden in left field and probably a new first baseman by name of Fitzmaurice, a promising young player, measuring 6 feet 4 inches, who gives all sorts of promise, and who is needed badly to fill out the vacancies in the infield just now. Lou Nordyke was given his release and was at once signed on by President Fielder Jones to take the place of umpire Eddinger, who has been given a much needed rest. Felts was also released, and has been sent to Geo. Engle's North Yakima team.

Madden is expected to brace up the outfield wonderfully. He has a 260 batting average attached to himself, and is a speedy base runner. As far as fielding is concerned he will have to go some to beat Felts, but it is his stick work which is expected by the fans more than anything else. Fitzmaurice is a big league prospect, and was highly recommended to the local club. He has been in Oregon and joined the team last night at Seattle. This will be his debut in professional company. He weighs 200 pounds.

The game today started at 3:30 o'clock, while tomorrow it will be called at 6:10. Wednesday's game will be announced later. It is expected that Perle Casey will be the umpire here this week.

Alberts will probably be a fixture hereafter in the outfield. His hitting at .324 will keep him there any old day in the week. Who will be benched when Delmas gets back permanently is hard to say, as a place has to be found for Charlie Swain. Victoria leads the league in hitting with an average of .268, and is third in fielding with .661. Seattle is leading and Portland is second. Meek is hitting at the top of the league with .452.

Victoria has no starting base stealers. Rawlings is appearing in the official averages at the head of the Victorians with 5 pilfered sacks to his credit.

1888—Charles Lynch, American featherweight, defeated Dan Harrington, English, in 58 rounds at Shelhaven, England. Lynch had previously met Sam Flinthey in England for the world's featherweight title, but lost on a foul in the 95th round. After his victory over Harrington, Lynch was again matched with Flinthey, and defeated him in 45 rounds, thus becoming the first recognized featherweight champion of the world. A few years later he lost the title to George Holden, an Englishman.

1911—Sam Langford and Tony Caponi fought a ten-round draw at Winnipeg.

GOOD CONTESTS AT

MOTORCYCLE RACES

Local Amateurs Take Up and Made Success Fine Meet at Willows Saturday

Motorcycling got an auspicious reception in this city on Saturday afternoon at the Willows when at least 2,000 persons witnessed eight exciting races, each one furnishing a thrill of its own. The instant popularity of this sort of racing was noticeably displayed by attendance, it being practically the debut of this kind of sport here, and the support given augurs well for another meet soon.

The professional riders gave an exhibition of some fine riding, while the local amateurs, who are tyros at the game, showed equally as good work. Art Creech, particularly shows signs of greater success in faster company, should he continue to follow motor cycling.

There were no accidents to mar the success of the meet, and considering the loose condition of the dirt track, the time is considered excellent. The grand stand was crowded to capacity, and the track was lined half way round at least with spectators.

The riding and daringness of Art Creech, of this city, were a feature of the meet. Creech won the second race with a good 50 yards to spare; he was entered in the fifth, but went into the dirt on the south turn, and was out of it. He was not hurt, and he hurried back to the judges appealing for another race. He got it as a last race on the programme, and again demonstrated his fearless riding, winning this time with a very close margin of a couple of yards. Creech stayed behind in this race till the fifth lap, when he struck out ahead, and was never headed.

In the third race Godfrey had to quit on account of belt trouble. He met the same men in a specially arranged race, and on this second chance was beaten by about a length by Coburn after an exciting race.

The poor showing of Berrett, who holds several coast records, was due to the fact that injuries received in the first race, the former, were not allowed him to handle and ride his machine properly.

The professional riders were seen at a disadvantage, as the majority of them are used to a motorcycle motor-drome.

Godfrey, the British Columbia champion, after losing a close race in the fourth and being forced to retire with belt trouble in the third race, made good finally in the seventh, beating his rivals from the American side with a 300 yard lead. Jimmy Bugstad, the eighty-five pound rider, who is just about the best of his weight in the west, was outclassed by Godfrey in the fifth race, the former, lacking the weight to keep his car on the track.

The time made in the ten mile race, 13.40 is close to record time for amateurs on a half mile track, which speaks well for local riders.

The complete list of results follows:

Summary.

First race, side car, 2 miles.—1st, S. Smith; 2nd, Scott. Time, 2:14.

Second race, amateurs, 5 miles, 1st, Art (Excelsior); 2nd, C. O. Rayner (Indian); 3rd, G. Griffin (Flying Merkle); 4th, A. Canyon (Indian). Time, 6:44.

Third race, professionals, 5 miles.—1st, Coburn (Indian); 2nd, Berrett (Flying Merkle); 3rd, Godfrey (Excelsior). Time, 4:06.

Fourth race, match race, 5 miles.—1st, Coburn (Indian); 2nd, Godfrey (Excelsior). Time, 4:01 1/4.

Fifth race, match, 5 miles.—1st, Berrett; 2nd, Bugstad. Time, 4:18 1/4.

Sixth race, amateur, 10 miles.—1st, G. O. Rayner; 2nd, professional, 4 miles.—1st, Godfrey (Excelsior); 2nd, Coburn; 3rd, Berrett (Flying Merkle). Time, 6:56.

Eighth race, amateur, match race, 5 miles.—1st, Art (Excelsior); 2nd, C. O. Rayner; 3rd, J. W. Griffin. Time, 6:47.

CRICKET SCORES IN OLD COUNTRY GAMES

London, June 15.—The county cricket between Lancashire and Gloucestershire, which started June 9 at Bristol was a draw. The Gloucestershire scores included Dipper, 108, not out, and Lancashire scores included A. H. Hornby, 109, Sharp (J.), 85, and Tydesley (E.), 97. Games started at last Thursday, and concluded Saturday, resulted as follows: Yorkshire beat Essex by seven wickets at Layton. Rhodes made 97 for the winners. The Warwickshire-Sussex match at Coventry was drawn. Chief scorers were: Warwick, Quate (W. G.), 127, and Baker (C. B.), 151; Sussex, Reif (R.), 88, not out, Vine, 100; not out, Reif (A. E.), 82. Surrey beat Scotland by seven wickets at the oval. For Surrey Hobbs (A.) made 150, not out. Gloucestershire beat Northamptonshire by 21 runs at Northampton. Dunnett, for Northampton took six wickets for 42 runs. Hampton beat Derbyshire by nine wickets at Derby. Howell made 104, not out, and Mead (C.), 64, for Hampshire. Mead has now completed a thousand runs this season, and is the first player to do so. The Middlesex-Lancashire match at Lord's was drawn. Tarrant, for Middlesex, took seven wickets for 53 runs, Sharp (J.), made 119 for Lancashire. Leicester beat Worcestershire by eight wickets at Coalville. The heavy batterers were: Leicester, Whitehead (H.), 100; and King, 105, not out.

Victoria Lacrosse Team Made Poor Showing; Penalized Heavily in Game

All hopes of Victoria gaining the Mann cup this season went swimming on Saturday when the Westminster amateurs took the measure of Sam Lorimer's locals to the extent of 9 goals to 1. Judging from the form of the Vancouver world's champions this season thus far it looks like the money for the Terminals once more.

According to press reports from the Royal City, the mainland players had an easy time with the locals, the Victoria defence failing to show its usual form. The Westminsterers showed decided improvement in all divisions of the team and played better lacrosse than at any time this season. The best of the Westminster attack was the goal, which was good for second place, unless Vancouver should show a reversal of form, and this is hardly likely.

The Victoria attack was checked so closely that it was given little chance to work. Long shots were resorted to by the local home players all to no purpose.

The teams:—

Westminster	Position	Victoria
Stoddart	goal	Johnson
Catchell	point	Clegg
Gregory	cover	Dakers
Atkinson	first defence	Sweeney
Batson	second defence	Okell
Nelson	third defence	Taylor
Sanger	centre	J. Johnson
Swanson	third home	McGregor
Johnson	second home	McGregor
Storme	first home	Petticrew
Gifford	outside	McDonald
Feeney	inside	Brynjolfson
Referee, Gifford; Judge of play, F. J. Cambridge.

Goal Summary—First quarter—1. J. Gifford, Westminster, 6 minutes; 2. McGregor, Victoria, 1:30; 3. Gifford, Westminster, 6:30. Second quarter—4. Feeney, Westminster, 14:00; 5. Johnson, Westminster, 1:30. Third quarter—7. Nelson, Westminster, 14:00. Fourth quarter—8. Nelson, Westminster, 5:00; 9. Storme, Westminster, 4:30; 10. Feeney, Westminster, 3 minutes.

Statistics—First quarter, none; second quarter, Dakers, Victoria, 5 minutes; third quarter, Storme, Westminster, 5 minutes; Gifford, Westminster, 5 minutes; Dakers, Victoria, 5 minutes; fourth quarter, Dakers, Westminster, 5 minutes; McGregor, Westminster, 5 minutes; Atkinson, Westminster, 5 minutes; Brynjolfson, Victoria, 5 minutes; McGregor, Victoria, 5 minutes.

VANCOUVER LOSES TO WESTMINSTER

Vancouver, June 15.—Westminster defeated Vancouver champions on the golf course in the fourth round of the Minto-cup series on Saturday by the score of 9 to 4. The Vancouver boys led off with a snap that looked as though they were to have an unbeatable day, and when the first period had ended were leading by 3 goals to none. But the Westminster boys decided to out of form and this explains the cause of the defeat.

Lalonde, Carter and Matheson played a brilliant game. It was the Carter and Lalonde combination which resulted in the locals getting a send-off to the tune of three goals to none in the first period. But two men cannot be expected to do all the work. Pringle, Plickering and Ion failed to take advantage of numerous opportunities.

The Vancouver defence played a consistent game, but the poor work of the majority of the home players was not encouraging. Just when the game in goal, stopping some hard shots.

While no individual player on the Red Shirts came up to the standard set by Lalonde and Carter, the opposing team's home played a much even game, and the men worked in some perfect combinations. This was in marked contrast to the play of the Vancouver home, which seemed to be simply to officiate as conveyors to Lalonde and Carter, whether the latter were in a better position to score than the other men or not. Feeney and the two Springs did the most of the goal-getting for the Red Shirts, but it was essentially a team work which rendered the scoring possible. As fast and spectacular a combination as has been seen in any game here was pulled off by Westminster in the third period, when Feeney, who was close to the nets, passed back to Cliff Spring, catching the return from a difficult angle and popping in the ball with lightning speed. As the game wore on, Westminster's home became more and more efficient, and the game ended with brilliant attacks on the Vancouver nets.

LOCAL MAN WILL JUDGE AT VANCOUVER

The North Vancouver Kennel Club will hold a one-day show on July 1 in the new dog show building at Hastings park. The club has obtained the services of J. S. Hickford, of this city, to judge all setters and pointers, all spaniels excepting toy, retrievers and Labrador. John L. Bamford, of Coleraine, County Derry, Ireland, will judge terriers excepting Boston, and George Tait, of Seattle, all breeds not assigned to the other judges.

Twelve gold medals and over 165 sterling silver and bronze medals are offered for competition.

The office of the club is 101 Dawson building, Vancouver, or entries will be received by Messrs. Short, Hill & Duncan, or at King Edward hotel. Entries close next Monday.

Poor Eddie Plank and his sore arm! Look what he has been doing lately. But 28 men faced him in the game he pitched against Washington on May 28.

TWO GAMES EARNED BY COAST GOLFERS

Finally Get Into Scoring at Big Meet at Seattle on Saturday

Seattle, June 15.—The winning of two matches by H. Chandler Egan, of Medford, Ore., over Warren K. Wood, of Chicago, and of J. S. Matterson, of Victoria, over Phil Stanton of Grand Rapids, Mich., on the course of the Seattle Golf Club Saturday, were the first two points scored out of the sixteen individual match points at stake in the first matches of the series of five being played by teams representing the Pacific Northwest and the Middle West.

Although the Chick Evans-A. V. Macan match won the gallery, naturally, and held it with the great golf on exhibition, for the Egan-Wood match, the keenest interest attached and the result was the uppermost topic of gossip about the course and club grounds.

Incidentally, it brought to the fore a nationalist a hard-earned and most satisfactory 70 for the morning round, while his opponent was just three strokes less, playing consistent golf and quite to his form. The margin of three strokes exactly represents the hole the Oregonian was up on Wood. Not a bad hole was registered by either player.

A fine chance for a 69 was lost at the fifth hole, when Egan, appreciating that he was playing a match and not a medal game, refused to take a chance on a stroke less when he had the hole in two putts.

He had pitched his maulie to three feet of the cup, while Wood was short with his second shot, and ran his third to within ten feet of the pin, missing his putt and giving his opponent two for the hole. He took the two rather than imperil his chances for the hole.

The character of the folk at the "Nineteenth" hole was in the general effect that "Warren is a great closer," and he started off on the second round as though he was going to get 'em back, taking the first a with a four, halving the next, winning the third and squaring the match at the fourth with a 4.

Egan has blown up," was borne back on the winds, but instead of blowing he took a fresh hold on his game and his match and it began to come his way, slowly, but surely. Taking the fifth and seventh holes with three, halving the others, he brought the match back to 2 up at the turn.

Halving at the start of the return trip, Egan won the waterhole with a 3, took the thirteenth in 4 and won his match at the fifteenth with a 4. The 5 up and 4 on his worthy opponent was a real accomplishment, one that any golfer in the United States would be tickled to death with, for they consider Warren Wood just about this way-and-that with Chick Evans throughout the golfing world.

It was the Evans-Macan match that gave thrills galore and caused hope to mount high at certain stages that the great Evans was about to get his "Chick" get him," they said; and he did, 4 up and 2.

Off to a bad start, missing a putt on the very first hole, for a "every hole was halved to the seventh, although Macan dubbed a putt on the fifth and lost a chance to win. The Victorian's drive had been hooked into the edge of the woods for the seventh and this was fatal, or, although getting a 4, Evans was through with three on a long putt. His 5 at the ninth turned the match at 1 up.

A more than perfect 2 on the eleventh, and with three for the next brace, but the Chicagoan four to the goal, a margin dropped to three at the

GOOD SCORES MADE AT THE RANGES

The members of the Civilian Rifle Association again turned out in force at Clover Point range on Saturday afternoon, 49 members in all being present and competing in the class events. Some remarkably high scoring was made, considering the gusty winds, at 600 yards. Fifty per cent. of the members made an average of 91.8 per man, which is considered first-class shooting, and a remarkable improvement is particularly noticed in every practice.

The gold button was won by R. W. Fox with a high score of 101. E. E. Hardwick was the winner of the silver button in class B with a splendid score of 97. E. Satterthwaite won the bronze button in class C with a score of 77. Saturday next, June 21, weather permitting, long ranges will be shot over.

Clothing, Hat & Furnishing Stock MUST BE TURNED INTO CASH

BIG SALE OPENS THIS TUESDAY MORNING AT NINE O'CLOCK

There are three reasons why we run this sale at this unusual season. First—the season is six weeks late, which means that warm weather goods have not moved as in other years. Second—our policy is to clear out all goods during the season for which they are bought; this means crowding three months' business into one. Third—we must have the cash and have it now. This means bargains for you—and you'll get real ones, too. Everything here is quoted under original prices; no misrepresentations, no juggling of figures, no old stock, no sharp practices. COME AND BUY.

Mr. Maybe A. Buyer,

Dear Mr. Buyer:

In answer to your enquiry as to the location of Canada's Greatest Pleasure Resort, we beg to say that it is about sixty-five miles from Victoria, on the South shore of Vancouver Island, just outside the Straits of Juan de Fuca on the open Pacific, within easy reach of all the Coast Cities. It is also only a few days' journey from the Prairies, from which come every year numbers of families to Summer on the Coast.

We would be delighted if you would investigate our proposition. To all purchasers of lots the Company gives free transportation to and from the property, and if it is not as we have advertised it, you can have your money back.

The lots are selling at $100, $150 and $250 each, on terms of 10% cash, $15 on delivery of contract, and the balance $15 per month until paid. All lots approximate one-quarter of an acre.

For illustrations of the property and vicinity, see the views at our office.

We will write you further, giving details as to transportation the day after to-morrow. In the meantime, full particulars may be obtained at our office.

Yours faithfully,

KING'S DAUGHTERS ELECT

Miss Leitch is Again President; Rest Room Work a Popular Suggestion.

At the annual provincial convention of the King's Daughters of British Columbia, which concluded on Friday, June 3, the following officers were elected: President, Miss Leitch; secretary, Mrs. B. B. Wilson; and treasurer, Miss Henderson. Two new offices were created, these being that of corresponding and literary secretary, Mrs. L. H. Hardie and Mrs. Hesel respectively being elected to all these offices. Other members of the board of executives are Mrs. R. G. McPherson, Mrs. W. H. Griffin, of Vancouver; Mrs. Whiteley, of Claverdale, and Mrs. J. Macdonald, of Duncan.

Miss Leitch presided during the entire three days' session, and the report of the work being done in Victoria in connection with the King's Daughters' rest room was enthusiastically approved by the united circles, the Vancouver branches considering the establishment of a similar work in that city. All the circles throughout the province will continue their charitable and philanthropic work throughout the ensuing year. The local organization will hold its next meeting as usual on the first Wednesday of July.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW CHURCH

DUTY OF THE CHURCH TO BUILD A HOLY CITY

Inspiring Addresses by Rev. Dr.
Strong, of Seattle, at Yesterday's Ceremonies

Reverently and in the presence of a large gathering of the congregation of the First Congregational church, the new church home of that body was dedicated to the worship of God and the service of men yesterday morning. The beautiful auditorium was filled with worshippers, not only of the immediate congregation but of other churches who had come to take part with their Christian brethren of the First church. The pulpit and platform were decorated with flowers and palms, this work being done by a decoration committee of ladies.

With the pastor, Rev. Hernon A. Carson, on the platform were Rev. Sidney Strong, D.D., pastor of Queen Anne Congregational church, Seattle; Rev. John Reid, D.D., and Alfred Howell, senior deacon of the church, who has occupied that position since the formation of the congregation, seventeen years ago.

During the service Mr. Carson read a message of congratulation which he had received by wire from Rev. W. T. Gunn, general secretary of the Congregational Union of Canada.

Form Was Read.
Following the opening petition of the service the dedication ceremony proper took place, in which the pastor and the congregation united. All standing, this form was read:

Pastor: To the glory of God our Father, by whose favor we have built this house, to the honor of Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God, our Lord and Saviour; to the praise of the Holy Spirit, source of life and light; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: For worship in prayer and song, for the ministry of the Word; for the celebration of the Holy Sacraments; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: For comfort to those who mourn, for strength to those who are tempted, for help in right living; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: For the sanctification of the family, for the guidance of childhood, for the salvation of men; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: For the fostering of patriotism, for the training of conscience, for aggression against evil; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: For the help of the needy, for the promotion of brotherhood, for bringing in the Kingdom of God; Congregation: We dedicate this house.

Pastor: As a tribute of gratitude and love, a freewill offering of thanksgiving and praise from these who have tasted the cup of Thy salvation, and experienced the riches of Thy grace; Congregation: We, the people of this church and congregation, now consecrating ourselves anew, dedicate this entire building in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, Amen.

Choir and Congregation: Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

Rev. Dr. Reid, who offered up the dedication prayer in the Pandora avenue building on July 15, 1903, performed the same act of worship on this occasion.

Addressed the Young.
The pastor introduced the preacher of the day as a Christian gentleman, who had done much work for the church and for humanity in the great cities, an able man and a kindly spirit who had taken the time from many duties to come over to assist that congregation in their church dedication.

Dr. Strong first addressed a few words to the boys and the girls, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, the foundation of the future church. He recalled a canoe trip he had taken down the Zambesi ten years ago, and his speculations as to how the parents living along the banks kept their children from the ever-watchful crocodiles. He found that this was done in three ways. Around the water holes on the river bank were rings of stakes, the children always kept in the clear water, and they never got out of their canoes when out on the river. The stakes were the don'ts of parents, teachers and scoutmasters; the clear water was the avoidance of any doubtful place or companions, and the keeping within the canoe was typical of keeping within the church. So long as the boys and girls observed these safeguards they would be safe from the crocodiles who were to be found in the streets of every city, just as greedy for the children as were the reptiles of the African rivers.

Addressing himself to the congregation at large Dr. Strong spoke on the relation of the church and the city, taking as his text John's words in Revelation 21:2—"And I John saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem." The New Testament closed with a vision of a holy city, the preacher said, and it was significant that John, calling the holy city in one place the New Jerusalem, living here on this Isle of Patmos might have called it Victoria. The name did not matter, but the quest for a holy city did. The one John saw was clearly one to be realized here on earth. It was a heavenly city, but not in the sense of being built by angels in the skies for sin-weary men after death, but in which men could live free of sin now.

A Social Vision.
The quest of the holy city is a social vision. Just as once men started out on the quest for the holy grail—it was a time when personal purity and righteousness became a passion with all true knights—so the quest for a holy city such as John describes is what challenges and thrills the knights of our day. To build a holy city is even more splendid than to find the holy grail. It is the climax of Christian endeavor, the last word of God's revelation to man.

The cities of the present, with their congestion, slums, poverty and crime, might tempt one to say that the holy city of John's vision was a baseless dream. The city was a murderous place; murderers had built cities. The city was ceaselessly calling for men, for the best of men, calling them to break them on the wheels of industry and then fling them aside; calling for more and more and more men.

"Where shall we find a holy city?" In Victoria? Even courtesy would compel us to say no. San Francisco? While built by gold and reached through a Golden Gate no one imagines it is a holy city. New York? No. New York is one of the greatest commercial cities of the globe, and yet it is cold and hard and barbarous. London? No. London has within its walls acres of human shame and poverty instead of acres of diamonds. Rome? No. Rome is a name with which to conjure, and yet there are confusion and avarice and hypocrisy. Jerusalem has fallen beyond all description and is the scene of warring sects and bitter hatreds. There is no holy city; there never has been one; human beings have never yet lived together in peace and holiness.

Living in Peace.
"Is there to be one?" Many individuals think not. Even those who delight in dwelling on the last chapters of Revelations ascribe to heaven. And yet nothing is more certain than the fact that John was not thinking of heaven but that his was a social vision of a community of men and women living together in peace, prosperity and righteousness. The social regeneration of the world is to come through the cities; the places where men work, not where they rest; where human beings dwell whose traffic and enterprise is to be dominated by the laws of righteousness and love. The holy city does not depend on population but on principle. It is to be a city of the best, not of the big. John used New Jerusalem as its name and this has misled many. He used the name of the city he knew best, the capital of his own

New Form

Called

Instant Postum

A delicious drink—absolutely free from the drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

To build a holy city is even more splendid than to find the holy grail. It is the climax of Christian endeavor, the last word of God's revelation to man.

The cities of the present, with their congestion, slums, poverty and crime, might tempt one to say that the holy city of John's vision was a baseless dream. The city was a murderous place; murderers had built cities. The city was ceaselessly calling for men, for the best of men, calling them to break them on the wheels of industry and then fling them aside; calling for more and more and more men.

"Where shall we find a holy city?" In Victoria? Even courtesy would compel us to say no. San Francisco? While built by gold and reached through a Golden Gate no one imagines it is a holy city. New York? No. New York is one of the greatest commercial cities of the globe, and yet it is cold and hard and barbarous. London? Living in Peace.
"Is there to be one?" Many individuals think not. Even those who delight in dwelling on the last chapters of Revelations ascribe to heaven. And yet nothing is more certain than the fact that John was not thinking of heaven but that his was a social vision of a community of men and women living together in peace, prosperity and righteousness. The social regeneration of the world is to come through the cities; the places where men work, not where they rest; where human beings dwell whose traffic and enterprise is to be dominated by the laws of righteousness and love. The holy city does not depend on population but on principle. It is to be a city of the best, not of the big. John used New Jerusalem as its name and this has misled many. He used the name of the city he knew best, the capital of his own country, but it might have been better if he used no name. We can each apply it to our own community—Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle. The holy city is wherever people learn to live together in holiness and justice. To every man it is his own city. There is no reason why it should be remote, every reason why it should be near. As Henry Drummond says: "One Christian city, one city in any part of the earth whose citizens, from the greatest to the humblest, live in the spirit of Christ, whose religion had overflowed, the church and, passing into the streets, had inundated every home and workshop and permeated the whole social and commercial life—one such city in any part of the earth would mean the redemption of the world."

Mission is to Build.
The mission of the church, Dr. Strong continued, was to build the holy city. It supplied the fulcrum on which the lever was to be placed; its members were enough to leaven the lump. The only question was: Would the church as a large, would that particular church, address itself to the task? Would that church, newly and splendidly equipped, freshly energized, dedicate itself to the duty? The universal demand for unity, the impatience with the waste and duplication of energy, the insistence on reality in place of theological fictions, the strong social note of the day—these things were signs that the church of Christ was getting ready to bring the holy city down out of the sky and plant it on earth.

A Japanese statesman had said that the reasons for the success of Christianity over Buddhism in that land were threefold—it was ethical, it dealt with this world instead of the next, and it had social aims. No movement met the test that was not at once ethical, practical and social. People were coming to think of their community as one; there was developing what had been called the civic soul.

"This community holds a position of great responsibility and honor in the world," said Dr. Strong, "and you, as citizens, with faith equal to casting your mountains into the sea, if you divide your soul there is stirring the ambition to be the biggest, richest, healthiest, most cultured, most beautiful city in the world. The mission of this church is to maintain in that soul a vision of the holy city. You are near the crisis in your city life; remember what Lowell says:

"Once to every man and nation Comes the moment to decide."

What City is Like.

As to lines of work for the church to follow Dr. Strong said:

"The holy city is a place fit for children to be born in and to be reared in. It is a place where the little children may play in the streets without hearing the lie or seeing the abomination."

The insistent problem before the church to-day is the boy, the future citizen of the holy city. The final test of a city's prosperity is the children. If Victoria's schools and home can serve the graces incorporated by the power of God in the baby's heart the holy city is not far off. To save the city you must save the child. It must not only be fed and clothed and educated, but its native rights to play and work must be respected. Jesus taught that social salvation was that of the city where the children played in the streets; where life was tested by the qualities of childhood.

"The mission of the church and of this particular church will be, too, to supply a civic conscience. It must not fail to see that the civic conscience is vital and pervasive. The name of the street on which your church stands, Quadra, signifies that life church must stand four-square to the world, but you must not confine yourselves to this small area; you must go out into the community around you. Conscience, the civic conscience, must reign in all the members of the civic body, and the church must supply the men and the women who in their daily life will measure things by the Golden Rule and regulate their life by the law of love.

Should Follow.

"People are too much afraid to do anything unless they are given a guarantee that everyone will do it at once. Men have always procrastinated. It is the argument of the coward to wait until everyone joins him to do the thing he knows he should do now and that he knows it is right to do. Too many followers of Jesus follow until they feel the first pinch of being alone and unpopular, and then turn away into the paths of ease and popularity, till all follow. What is needed to bring in the holy city is men and women ready to follow no matter what anyone else does. As Drummond says, if one city would become a holy city it would mean the redemption of the world.

"The church and the city; this church and Victoria! You are splendidly equipped here for the work you have to do. While in the early portion of the New Testament the church is called the bride of Christ in its closing words the holy city is given; that designation. Does this not mean that as the church does its work, humbly, honestly, persistently, faithfully, of leaving the city's life it shall after a while be translated and transformed into a holy city. It shall decrease, and the city shall increase.

"May this particular church have an honorable part in this splendid consummation of building up here on earth the holy city of God."

Attractive Music.

The musical portion of the service was well rendered so far as the choir was concerned, and was joined in heartily by the people. T. H. Brown led the choir, and Harold Davis was at the organ. Miss N. McIntosh and N. Collins sang, "Love Divine" as a duet. The anthem was Handel's, "The Heavens are Telling," and the hymns included the Old Hundredth, "Light Up This House With Glory, Lord," and "The Son of God Goes out to War."

J. E. Andrews, junior deacon of the church, made an announcement as to the splendid financial standing of the building, and asked for an additional $5,000 to complete the equipment of the social side of the work.

Troops Seven and Eight, Boy Scouts, were present in the gallery of the church under Scoutmaster F. Ward, marching down from their hall with the bugle band of the Scouts. The Girl Guides were also present in charge of Mrs. Castleton.

In the afternoon there was a gathering of the Sunday school scholars, and the members of the adult Bible classes in the church, when a social service was held. Later a largely attended singing session was held, at which Dr. Strong spoke on some of the problems that are facing the men of the north-west, dealing with the various civic, social and moral questions that are demanding solution, and in the settlement of which he urged the young men of the church to take their share, and an active one.

At the evening service the church was filled in every part. Dr. Strong was again the preacher, his theme being the sermon on the Mount as a rule of conduct for the church, following up his thought of the morning. The choir rendered the "Hallelujah Chorus" and other anthems in a very fine manner.

This evening in the church hall there will be a banquet, the ladies of the congregation being the hostesses; and at 8 o'clock there will be a public meeting in the auditorium, when greetings will be presented from the other city congregations. It is expected that the premier will be among the speakers.

OPENING OF NEW FACTORY

The Western Home of Fleischmann's Yeast

Official announcement of the opening of the new factory of The Fleischmann Company for the manufacture and distribution west of the Missouri River of Fleischmann's Yeast which has been awaited by commercial bodies and the public for some months, has just been made. The new plant in which the company has invested upwards of $400,000 and which is admitted by all who have seen it to be one of the finest manufacturing plants in the Pacific Coast region, is located amid attractive surroundings at Sumner, Washington, midway between Seattle and Tacoma, the chief cities of western Washington. It is in immediate touch with rail and steamship lines reaching every part of the western portion of the United States, Canada and Alaska.

Because of the ideal character of its location and the architectural attractiveness of the buildings, the Fleischmann plant has caused attention to be focused upon it, both on the part of the public and on the part of commercial bodies of the cities of the Pacific Northwest. The passenger trains of seven steam and electric roads pass by the new Fleischmann plant, and looking through the car windows, tens of thousands of travelers, local and eastern, have observed with interest the growth of the massive, fire-proof masonry structures.

It is not to be supposed that when the announcement of the intent to build the new Fleischmann plant was made it signalled the advent of Fleischmann's Yeast in these parts. For the name of Fleischmann has become a household word in thousands of families and is becoming more and more intimately related to the domestic life of the people. Bread and Fleischmann's Yeast have become practically synonymous in the tendency of the people to-day to eat more good bread. Agencies had been established everywhere on the west coast by the manufacturers as long as fifteen years ago. Until now the product had been supplied by factories at Chicago and Cincinnati, the nearest producing points to the coast.

Industrial development in the states of the Pacific Coast, as shown convincingly by the census of 1910, furnished much that is required in the way of proof of the contention that the yeast plant was necessary on the Pacific Coast. The business of the company had grown to such vast proportions and shipments were necessary over such a wide area, that the erection of this western factory became essential in order to afford the same prompt and regular delivery which is a part of the Fleischmann service.

The paramount consideration, naturally, was the benefit derived upon the ultimate consumer, the individual most intimately concerned, insuring fresher yeast and consequently yeast of greater leavening power. Furthermore, in this new move there will naturally follow the closest scrutiny and watchfulness of the business by the local management, resulting in the best possible service to the public. For to the consumer, Fleischmann service carries with it the same significance as does the yeast itself. It must be the best of the best.

In departments of management and manufacturing the Coast Division of the business is guided by men of long experience in the employ of The Fleischmann Company. The plant, which is the eighth to be built by the Fleischmanns in the half century of their business life, is a model of architectural beauty, convenience and efficiency. No pains or expense were spared in achieving the best possible results known to the builders. The interior equipment is a wonderful example of modern mechanic's craft. The machinery installed is of a kind individual and peculiar to itself, made in its operation and not to be found in a manufacturing plant of any other kind in the world.

In the planning and construction of the new Fleischmann plant due provision was made for the most advanced sanitary features of this generation, the purpose being to equip the plant with all the beneficial and advantageous features and facilities possible and to eliminate such others as experience covering these many years had proved undesirable or of minimum efficiency value.

The Wasp team won from the Victoria team on the Jubilee grounds on Saturday by 41 runs in a very interesting game. The Albion "B" team won from the University by a good margin in a hard fought game at the former's grounds. The Men's Own defeated the team from the cable ship Restor in a close match Saturday; low scores resulting from good bowling. The final count gave the winners a majority of 36 runs. R. Ferris and S. Ferris showed the best form with the bat.

BRITISH GO DOWN TO DEFEAT AT POLO

When Visitors Had Game in Hand, Were Penalized for Fouling and Lost

Meadowbrook, L. I., June 16.—The British polo team went down to a close defeat on Saturday against the Americans after a hard-fought game by the score of 4-1-2-4. The tactics of the home players at the outset had been again to rush the visitors as was successfully done in the first game, but they were repulsed in this match, and did not break into the score until the third period. It was during the last period with victory in sight for the Britishers, score 4-3-4 to 1-2-2, that they were unfortunately penalized 1-2 goal for fouling, Locket having crossed Waterbury. This, of course, took victory right of the British team's hands, lacking a quarter of a point, and there the game ended.

The Play.
The game opened with a sharp attack from the Americans, who got into their stride much faster than their opponents. After some individual play by Waterbury, Freaque got away and made a great run, saving finally. Brilliant team work by Cheape, Rilton and Freaque ended in Cheape scoring just before the first period ended. Score, England one, America none.

In the first minute of play the English nearly got another goal when Stoddard failed to watch Cheape closely enough, and the Englishman missed the goal by only a few inches. A moment later the Americans had another close call. Cheape made another clean miss, then Stoddard got the ball. Freaque outraced him and spoiled his shot. Milburn got the ball on the throw in and hammered it down the field until Cheape broke into him. The Englishman made a long shot back to Freaque, who had the pace of the Americans in a whirl down the field. He missed an easy shot, or the invaders would have had another point. Score, England one, Americans nothing.

Third period. The pace was increasing, and the hitting of the Americans was getting more sure and savage. They swept down upon the English goal in two rushing rushes, but Stoddard's missing spoiled their chances. The third time they were irresistible, and Milburn sent the white ball through for their first score. The Americans were penalized half a goal making the score, England 1, Americans 1-2.

Fourth period. The defenders in rushing charges carried the ball down to the English goal. Here a series of misses cost the American's a goal, and the play came back to the American goal. But again in terrific rushes the ball bounded down the field and Stoddard offset his many mistakes by making a beautiful shot for America's second goal. In just a minute later he took a long shot from Larry Waterbury and hammered the ball through the English goal for America's third goal. Stoddard was wildly cheered as he left the field at the end of the fourth period. Score, America 2, England 1-2.

Fifth period. When play began the American combination carried the ball forward, but Stoddard missed and the play went down to the other goal again where there was a hot scrimmage, and the Englishmen finally drove the ball through, Cheape making the shot.

In the next few minutes of play Cheape shot another goal, and the English went ahead. The English team were working like one man, and swept the Americans down the field. The next few minutes they missed a goal only by a foot. This piece of hard luck was evened up when the Americans missed two goals when the ball hit the goal post. The English got a quarter of a goal for a safety, making the score 2-3-4-2-1-2.

Sixth period. Right at the beginning the Englishmen missed two chances to score. After a few more failures Cheape finally pushed the ball through for another score. Stoddard's terrible missing paved the way for another goal, and Captain Freaque walloped the ball through, scoring another goal.

One of those was evened up a moment later when Larry Waterbury made a pretty shot and scored. Then Waterbury took the game in his own hands and, riding like a madman, drove the ball through the post for the second goal of the period. Score, England 4-3-4, Americans 4-1-2.

Seventh period, as stated. No further score.

TIMES WIN.

Yesterday morning at the Beach diamond the Times carriers defeated the fast Outer Wharf nine by the score of 11-7. Rickerson took the mound for the Wharf team but was batted hard and had to retire in favor of Quinn Campbell, the Times slab man. Itched good ball. The game was played in 1 hour and 50 minutes.

George Fox gave satisfaction as umpire. The same teams will meet next Sunday on the same diamond.

SUBWAY CAVED IN.

New York, June 16.—The body of John Green, a delirious, was recovered early to-day from the pile of broken rock under which he and nine other fellow-workers were buried in a cave-in of the Lexington Avenue subway, now under construction, Saturday night. Ten bodies have now been recovered.

BILL DAY'S CREW BEATS ALL IN SIGHT

Bill Day's crew of oarsmen won the honors of the James Bay club regatta over the harbor course on Saturday by winning all his heats and the ultimate championship. Day had developed a strong crew, and won each heat handily.

The following are the detailed results:
First heat, W. Day, stroke, J. R. McIlrie, L. Diespecker and R. Miller, won from J. Sweeney, stroke, Newbigging, Catterall and P. McQuade, by a length.

Second heat, H. A. Leigh, stroke, A. Jeffs, A. Loeke and J. Tait, won from D. H. C. Russell, stroke, R. Mayers, A. Dorman and P. J. Salmon.

Third heat, G. D. Scott, stroke; N. B. Hall, and S. Crocker won from P. M. Maunell, stroke; V. Carter, P. O'Meara and Mulcahy.

Semi-finals, Day's crew won from Leigh's crew, by two lengths.

Finals, Day's crew won from Scott's crew, one length.

The conditions for the races were most favorable, and the regatta a success in every way.

SPORT NOTES

The Canadian 1,000-yard record was smashed on Saturday by Jack Tait at Toronto, the speed boy finishing the race in 2:19.1-5, as against the previous record of 2:23.

A world's record was also broken in the inter-city medley relay race at the same meet in which Toronto took first. The new record is 4:47.

In the N. L. U., the M. A. A. A. team beat Sherbrook 4 to 2, and the Montreal Shamrocks defeated St. Thomas by 5 to 2.

"Jeff" Clark and Harry Wells have signed for a ten-round bout in New Orleans, June 18. The agreement provides the winner of the bout is to meet Sam Langford in July at New Orleans.

Bantamweight Champion Johnny Coulon, of Chicago, and Johnny "Kid" Williams, of Baltimore, have been matched by Promoter McCarrey to fight at Vernon arena the night of July 29 for the bantamweight championship of the world.

H. Gatenby, 145 pounds, has signified his intention of taking the deft recently issued in this paper. The match is being arranged.

The Y. M. C. A. cricketers defeated at Oak Bay team on Saturday afternoon by a score of 54 runs to 26. The bowling of Macfay featured the work of the Y. M. C. A. team, who performed the hat trick.

Mr. Shoebottom, of the Westholme hotel, has severed his connection with the Westholme hotel, and will henceforth handle a similar position with Mr. H. Springer in Vancouver. Mr. Pye, late of Sidney, a cartoonist of some note, will succeed Mr. Shoebottom at the Westholme.

At the North Ward park last week at the playgrounds there were 500 boys in attendance and 445 girls. Two weeks' total brings the mark to 970 boys and 945 girls. The games played have been running, relay races, basketball, baseball, jump the ball, three deep, football tag, cat and mouse baseball, ball tag, 2 cricket practices, 3 ball practices, 3 ball matches, 1 lacrosse practice, 1 lacrosse match.

WILL CHALLENGE AGAIN FOR POLO CUP

New York, June 16.—The Duke of Westminster, who backed the English polo team on its trip to this country in the unsuccessful attempt to lift the Westchester polo cup, has only started his campaign to get the trophy back to England. This is about as far as any English players commit themselves to-day as to the possibility of another challenge for the cup next year, but they seem to be the general opinion that in view of the close score by which the cup was defended last week, the duke will not be content until he has sent his Englishmen to try again.

The time limit for a challenge for a series next year is December 31.

A special cable dispatch published to-day hinted at the possibility of a challenge from Germany.

The gate receipts of the two games of the international polo cup series amounted to more than $200,000, a greater sum than has ever been taken in during two days of baseball in the world series. The expenses are said to be $25,000, leaving a net profit of $175,000. What the American Polo Association will do with the balance has not been determined.

About 60,000 persons say the two games at prices ranging from $25 for some of the boxes, to $2 for seats in the grandstand and fifty cents in the field.

FORT LAWTON WON.

The Victoria Moose nine tasted defeat for the first time this season, on Saturday, at the hands of the Fort Lawton team, by the score of 8-1. The visitors outclassed the locals both at bat and in the field.

SHOT AT PICNIC.

Seattle, June 16.—There was a row at the picnic of the Geneva Association at Juanita park, across Lake Washington, last evening, and one of the party of picnickers was brought to the hospital ward in the county jail with a bullet wound in his leg. The wound is not serious. The Geneva Association is an organization of cooks and waiters who went over to Juanita for an outing.

RECEIVES REWARD AFTER MANY YEARS

Fenian Bounty for Campaign of 1870 Comes to Local Resident; His Story

As a veteran of the operations against the Fenians in May, 1870, Alphonse Rochon, a resident for several years of the Hagan district, has just received the veteran's bounty.

It is true that 43 years have passed since the events which the grant commemorates occurred, but they live evergreen in the pages of memory of this brave old soldier, who long since has undergone peaceful walks of life.

Mr. Rochon tells of the days when the troops were hurriedly summoned to the neighborhood of St. John's to meet the coming raid, apprehensions concerning which led the Adjutant-General of Militia to call out a force of active troops, chiefly on the Quebec border line, the Queen's birthday finding the troops, mainly drawn from Montreal and vicinity, on the move to take up defensive positions.

Mr. Rochon had fitted himself for the brief campaign which followed by experience gained in the Sixty-Fifth Battalion, Carabiniers Mont Royal, as private, and afterwards as sergeant, in the two years before the campaign. In after years he became sergeant-major, and subsequently quartermaster-sergeant before retirement in 1878.

On May 27, 1870, the militia department had assembled about 13,000 troops, and 13 runs to meet the invaders, two days after a party of Fenians numbering about 200 had crossed the Mistassqui border line with the evident intention of seizing a strong position at Boies Hill. However, they were repulsed by 40 men of the Sixty-Fifth Battalion and 27 farmers resident in the neighborhood. That evening the invaders were driven from some barns and outhouses they had occupied, abandoning a field gun, their rifles and ammunition. The small body of Canadians remained under arms till daybreak, when some of the inhabitants advanced under a flag of truce and stated that the Fenians had withdrawn.

Another Fenian party crossed the border on the same day, near the Huntingdon frontier, but were met by a brigade and repulsed. They were driven from their intrenchments and fled precipitously, the militia detachments subsequently receiving the thanks of the lieutenant-general for gallantry in the field. Mr. Rochon participated in this campaign, and afterwards came West with the Wolseley expedition in the first Riel rebellion.

MARATHON FOR MOTORISTS

Carnival Committee Suggests That Pacific Highway Association Delegates Visit Victoria.

The carnival committee daily finds some new suggestion for the furthering of the success of carnival week, and one of the latest ideas which has met with general approval is that the Pacific Highway Association, which is to hold its annual convention in Vancouver, commencing August 11, shall hold a Marathon to Seattle during carnival week, with the purpose of bringing visitors to Victoria, who will go on from this point to the convention in Vancouver.

The secretary of the citizens' committee is still anxious to get the names and addresses of people who have rooms which they will be willing to put at the disposal of the accommodation committee for the week. A great many visitors will come to the city, for whom there will not be sufficient accommodation in the hotels, and it is for these that the committee is seeking rooms.

Meantime the campaign committee is continuing its work, and daily a list of further names is added to the list of subscribers. This evening at 5 o'clock the finance committee will meet, the water events committee holding a session at 8:30 p. m. to-night. There will be a general committee meeting to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, and on Thursday the parade committee will meet at 8 p. m.

Keep Out the Weeds

Weeds unchecked will ruin the crop.

It isn't sufficient to plough and sow well in Spring and Fall and leave the rest to nature.

There are weeds to fight.

There are weeds in Business, too—weeds of competition and opposition—of public indifference from without, and of lack of enterprise from within—weeds that unchecked seriously retard business growth.

Cultivation is the only effective weed-killer. Keep cultivating and the weeds never get a chance to thrive.

There is a combination plough and harrow, fertilizer and spray, for every business—an effective weed-killer that will keep out the weeds.

It is Advertising

It is not enough to plough and sow well with advertisements in Spring and Fall and leave the rest to human nature.

Human nature and the respect your customers bear you are not proof against the Summer weeds that can thrive on rest and apathy.

You must keep busy in the hot weather—you must keep cultivating.

Turn Summer dullness into activity by Summer Advertising. Plan Summer attractions and plant for a crop of Summer profits, and the Advertising cultivation will keep out the weeds.

SPOKANE'S FESTIVAL WEEK STARTS TO-DAY

Spokane, June 16.—Spokane's festival week, known as the Pow-Wow, began this morning, and will continue until Saturday night. The day's festivities opened with a visit of the Pagan Indians from the Black Feet reservation, Montana, to the big chief of the Pow-Wow.

This afternoon a pictorial pageant, in which children of public and private schools will participate, will move through the streets. Later at the stadium the children will engage in folk dances.

Young women from the different cities of the Inland Empire, who arrived to-day as princesses and guests of the city, will be received.

NOBE LAID UP.

Halifax, N. S., June 16.—Commander Macdonald, of H. M. C. S. Niobe, will leave for England on Wednesday next, June 18, and the other officers will follow him in a few weeks. The pensioners and reserve men are under orders to return home early in July.

After their departure a handful of men will take care of the ship, which will be laid up.

Pacific Coast Home of FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST

WE beg to announce the opening in Sumner, Washington, of our factory for the manufacture on the Pacific Coast of FLEISCHMANN'S COMPRESSED YEAST.

The above is a picture of the most modern and best equipped yeast plant in the world. It occupies eleven acres of ground—situated in a beautiful valley, far from any possible contamination—and has every essential for turning out an absolutely pure product.

No expense has been spared in applying the most improved manufacturing methods known to modern science and worked out by long business experience. From this factory our yeast is shipped, fresh every day, to the various well-known Fleischmann distributing agencies constituting the Coast Division of The Fleischmann Co., thereby assuring our customers in this rapidly growing country a regular supply of the freshest, strongest and best yeast that can be put on the market.

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST

has been the standard of excellence for half a century. Manufactured from selected grain, it produces a healthier and more thorough fermentation in the dough than any other leaven and makes nutritious and digestible bread. It has not only raised the standard of bread baking, but has been the means of largely increasing the consumption of bread throughout the continent.

With the opening of our Coast Division factory, we respectfully solicit the continuance of the patronage of our friends and customers; also the patronage of those who now bake bread with other leavens, but who can bake better bread with FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST "made on the Coast."

THE WAITER AND HIS OPPORTUNITIES

WHY ENGLISH LADS
AVOID THE PROFESSION

Remarkable Successes of Foreigners Many of Whom Are Men of Culture

(Special Correspondence.)

London, June 2.—The ambition of every waiter is, or should be, to become manager and later proprietor of an hotel. A frequent traveller, it has often been a regret to me to see the fat post of manager in the big hotels occupied almost exclusively by Germans, Swis, or Austrians, and yet these men deserve their success; in each case they had started at the bottom and worked their way up to the top.

Absolute ignorance of the possibilities, a desire to begin at the top, with a certain amount of shyness, are among the reasons why English lads are holding back from the profession of waiter, while foreigners better informed are making money. This is a pity, for there are few openings now that offer such chances to intelligent not to say clever young men. The idea that it is "inferior" must be put aside, nor must it be considered that the job is a soft one. Few men succeed without first going through the mill, and those to whom fortune comes as a result of their own toil are as a rule better men than those to whom fortune comes by accident. It is often said that Englishmen are not suited by temperament for the profession of waiter; whatever it may have been in the past this is quite wrong, no-there is no more capable and restful water in the world than the well-trained Englishman; for this reason he is in great demand among the wealthy of all nationalities. He never gives the feeling that he is standing impatiently behind your chair waiting a chance to whisk your plate away, whether you have finished or not, forcing you to hastily swallow your food or run the risk of losing it. Instinctively he knows when you have finished, and your conversation runs along enjoyably and uninterrupted.
Silent, mainly respectful, he commends respect in his turn. The aim in life of every foreign waiter is a good position and wealth, and a large number of them attain their object. A German waiter whom I knew well made £10,000 a year profit for seven years and then retired. In the office at the same hotel there was a youth;
he is now 33 years old, has a salary of £1,000, a percentage and all found, as manager of a large hotel. Another German gets £2,000, a percentage, and all found, as general manager of an hotel company. These three men I knew as ordinary waiters not more than fifteen years ago.

A head waiter whom I know died last week £35,000. Another owns a hotel at Gardone. Another manages a splendid place at Axenfeld, or did so until recently, and one to whom I have often given a tip now owns his hotel and runs a private motor car. Another, by a stroke of luck which could not have come had he not been a hotel manager, is almost if not quite a millionaire. Then there is the celebrated instance where a manager was offered £10,000 a year to manage a famous place in America. A young German manager once complained bitterly to me of his small salary—£350 a year,
a percentage, and all found.

There are such facilities now for a man who means to get on. The L.C.C. has a school for waiters, a fair field for smart lads who will certainly be pushed on. The qualifications for success are keenness, diplomacy, temperance, and a desire to oblige. To get thorough knowledge of his subject, a man must start at the bottom, but he need not stop there; he must work his way through the departments so that he can take charge of any one of them.
I have seen the German who made £30,000, for it was no less, with his coat off frying omelettes and then washing plates, to cope with an unexpected rush, and this when he was already a rich man. There are few Englishmen managing hotels with credit to themselves and profit to their shareholders, keen able men, who realize that a top hat and a frock coat do not make up for chert, mutton or dish-water soup. Let young Englishmen put aside the idea that the profession of waiter is beneath their dignity. Let me put it in another way; if it is worth while for the huge army of Austrian, German and Swiss waiters to come over to England year after year, surely it is worth while for our own young men to look into the matter.

The foreigners are under no delusion; they know that there is money in the profession for a capable man, and they make it and keep their self-respect. In their ranks, university men are quite common. The sons of hotel proprietors are sent to gain experience, and learn the language. One lad, whose father owned seven hotels, arrived at a health resort where he had a situation for the season, and put up at the best hotel for a few days before proceeding to take up his post at a neighboring hotel. It chanced that at the next table sat a charming society lady, as I said, the waiter let his eyes rove over to her table from time to time. Imagine his dismay when a few days later the lady arrived at the hotel where he was working and was placed at a table at which it was his duty to serve. The lady surveyed him coldly, and asked him to send the head waiter, when she requested that he be removed and another man sent.

Another waiter whom I knew was a baron whose family had fallen upon evil days. He chose the profession of waiter as the surest way to revive their fallen fortunes, and I think he will do it.

Jealous for the welfare of my countrymen, I once remonstrated with the German proprietor of an hotel used exclusively by English and Americans, and asked why he did not employ English waiters. "Himmel!" he replied,
"that would be madness. Once I had an English stable master, and he came up to the front of my hotel and offered to fight one of the guests who had offended him." That was some years ago, but I agree with Lord Rosebery, "that we are a tamper race now,"
and it would not be likely to occur again. I have heard of instances where young Scotchmen are taking up the profession, certain of a future if they give of their best and keep straight. Wherever one goes for a holiday in England, Scotland, or Ireland, there will be found the German waiter intent on working his way up to manager, and surely there is no reason but ignorance why Englishmen should not have a share in the world's business of managing hotels and clubs, and even £400 a year with all found and a percentage must be better than a clerkship at £200.

There is much to be done in the way
of improving hotels and restaurants, and even an insignificant looking place can make itself famous for cuisine and careful attendance.

FASCINATING HAIR FOR WOMEN

Is Easy to Have, Natural Colored and Beautiful

So many women have grey or faded hair; neglect it until it becomes thin, dry and lifeless, begins to fall out and makes them appear much older than they really are. If your hair is in this condition get a bottle of Hay's Hair
Health-to-day. Don't wait any longer.
Start using it now. You'll be delighted at the results from even one or two applications. The grey hairs gradually disappear and your hair will become full of life and vitality. It's not a dye but a nice, clean preparation that quickly and effectively keeps your hair dark, glossy and natural colored and that all druggists guarantee satisfactory or refund your money. Always ask for Hay's Hair Health.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Latin-American governments are often tragic-comic affairs, and hardly so strong and permanent as to be likened to Gibraltar, but Latin-American diplomacy is not a quality to excite admiration. At Washington and in the courts of Europe the southern republics have often been represented by diplomats who could, and did, out-diplomats the shrewdest of European and American statesmen. And the very prince of Spanish-American diplomats is Francisco Leon de la Barra, who recently announced his retirement from the post of minister of foreign affairs in the Huerta-Felix Diaz instead of a government. De la Barra is still a comparatively young man, as he will pass the half-century mark to-day. It is understood that he entertains ambitions to become president of Mexico, but, being young, a diplomat, and having due regard for his health and an entire skin, he has decided to wait a while. Running for president in Mexico is not, just at this time, the most healthful occupation in the world.

De la Barra was born on June 16,
1863, and was educated at the College of the City of Mexico, later studying law at the Escuela Nacional Jurisprudencia. After several years as a lawyer and a member of the Mexican congress, he began his diplomatic career under Porfirio Diaz as minister to South American countries, and later to Belgium and Holland. In 1908 he was appointed Mexican minister to the United States, but was recalled in 1911, when Carr Porfirio gave into his hands
the portfolio of minister of foreign

BRICKS OF BEAUTY

In modern building more attention has been paid to structural perfection than to beauty of design, but right here in Victoria is made a fac-and in any color—and it CUTS COST IN TWO.

affairs. A few weeks later Diaz resigned, on condition that de la Barra become provisional president. The diplomatic de la Barra, after the election of Madero, landed on his feet as skillfully as a feline, and became friend, supporter, adviser and Italian agent of the new executive of the perturbed country. He returned to Mexico from Italy in April of last year, still proclaiming himself a Maderista. After the last revolution, however, de la Barra landed right side up with care, and was made foreign minister of the Huerta-Diaz regime. Quite different was his fate from that of other leading Maderistas, who were shot "while trying to escape."

Suave, polished, polite, fluent of speech in French and English as well as Spanish, de la Barra is the type of diplomatic excellence, blowing hot and cold, carrying water on both shoulders.

ORDER
By GEORGE MATHEW ADAMS

The great business of this world is the creating of Order. We are up to it to some extent. And it is upon the proportion of our efforts toward the total Order of the Universe that we are judged as big or little men and women.

The business of each man and woman is to eliminate Dis-order from the earth.

The smallest effort that you put forth to-day is sure to cut down just that much the total existing Dis-order.
For every act you perform has its effect on Society as a whole. You may think that your small work in the great day counts for little or nothing, but in the summing up it may mean growth affecting countless numbers.

All great men and women have been earnest workers for Order. Their very life results bias the fact forth.
One of the great keys to the Character of people is the place where they work. The Desk in Order, the Office neat and with a place for every article, the home "spick and span," tasteful Clothes—these are revelations into secrets that tell bigger truths than tons of letters of recommendation and testimonials.

Carlisle says that every man is born an enemy to Dis-order. It is a great thing to live up to our Capabilities.
Order is one of the most important of them. You have To-day in which to make it real.

seven feet high which is entirely without

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Do not let the glamor of golden visions lead you to risking solid values on doubtful schemes. A careful counting of your resources and obligations will help you to form plans more to your advantage. Those born to-day will be capable of attaining high literary or scientific renown, but they will lack the practical knowledge whereby success is won. They will do better associated with conscientiously practical people.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

This day in the year 1755 saw the fall of the French fort Beauséjour, on the isthmus which connects Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. It stood on one side of a narrow stream and the English Fort Lawrence stood on the other. At Beauséjour the infamous Le Loutre, an unscrupulous politician in the garb of a priest, had collected a number of Acadians, whom he had beguiled and forced to leave their homes under the English flag; and when the place was attacked by a considerable body of British and New Englanders, led by Colonel Monckton, these country folk, greatly alarmed by the shells thrown into the fortress, began to desert. The commandant of Beauséjour, De Verger, was not amongst the heroes who fought so gallantly to save Canada for France, but was one of Bigot's creatures, more eager to gain the for honor or glory; and despite Le Loutre could do to stimulate the defenders of the fort to a bold resistance, De Verger decided, before the British had got their cannon into position, to surrender. The garrison was allowed to march out with the honors of war. The flag of England floated from the ramparts, and Fort Beauséjour became Fort Cumberland.

An incident of the American civil war that was of great interest to Canadians was the banishment by President Lincoln of Clement Laird Vallandigham, of Ohio, the leader of the "Peace Democrats," or "Copperheads." Vallandigham persistently denounced the war as "wicked, cruel, and unnecessary," and his audacity finally aroused Lincoln to action. The Ohio troublemaker was transported beyond the Union lines into the Confederacy, and, just half a century ago to-day, he took passage for Canada at Wilmington, coming to this country by way of Bermuda. He arrived at Halifax on July 4. From the Nova Scotia metropolis the exile went to Quebec, and afterwards to Niagara Falls. In the meantime he had been nominated for governor of Ohio, and he carried on his campaign from this country, issuing several addresses to the Democrats of Ohio. Later he removed to Windsor, where he remained until permitted to return to the United States. During his stay in Canada agents of the Confederacy were frequent visitors to Vallandigham, but they were unable to convince the exile of the justice of their hopes and ambitions. While the expatriate was defeated for the governorship of Ohio, he received a larger vote than was ever given a Democratic candidate in that state. Vallandigham proposed to leave Canada and return to Ohio just before the election, but a storm on the night he had planned for his return prevented his crossing the Detroit river. He remained in Windsor until June, 1864, when he returned to his home.

John Bright's motion for a royal commission of inquiry into Nova Scotia's demand for secession was negated by the British Commons forty-five years ago to-day.

FIRST THINGS
The first man to sing the immortal hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," was a boatman, the place an orange boat becalmed on the Mediterranean, off the island of Capri, the time eighty years ago to-day, June 16, 1883.

Henry Newman, a passenger on the boat, was a passer on the boat, he was in the Mediterranean in the hope of recovering his health. He was especially depressed on that day when the orange boat was becalmed, and sought to soothe his spirits by composing a hymn. The result was "Lead Kindly Light." The composition occupied but a few hours, and the boatman, who spoke English and was possessed of a fine voice, was asked to sing it. As the day melted into darkness a breeze sprang up, and the becalmed voyagers were guided by the "kindly lights" along the Capri shore into safe harbor. The composer, with health restored, soon returned to England, and

ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Dandruff Disappears, Falling Hair Ceases, When You Use Parisian Sage.

No preparation has done so much to stop falling hair; eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as PARISIAN Sage.

It is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe, the cause of most hair troubles.

PARISIAN Sage is most daintily perfumed. It is an ideal preparation not sticky or greasy. It does not contain poisonous sugar of lead or sulphur or any dye.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant lustrous hair that compels admiration and for men and children nothing can compare with it.

It does away with terrible scalp itch over night and causes the hair to grow in abundance.

And a large bottle of PARISIAN Sage costs only 50 cents at all drug and toilet goods counters.

D. E. Campbell guarantees it.

Two Irishmen, bent on robbery, held up a passing Scotsman. After a long, fierce fight, in which the Scotsman almost had the better of it, they succeeded in conquering him. A thorough search of his clothes disclosed one lone five-cent piece.

"Troth, Pat," said Mike, disgustedly, "if he'd had tin clints instead of a nickel he'd have murdered the two of us." Everybody's Magazine.

TRACED B. DOG.

Portland, Ore., June 16.—G. W. Bancroft, a customs clerk who disappeared four days ago, was found today by a dog and probably saved from death. Bancroft, who was suffering from a nervous ailment, started from his brother's home for a walk. A search was made without avail until the services of a bloodhound were enlisted. The animal led the searchers to a spot 300 yards from the house to a clump of bushes where Bancroft lay unconscious.

He had been exposed to the weather and had been without food four days.

KARLUK CLEARS FOR NORTH TO-MORROW

Arctic Ship is Ready; Will Take Fifty Tons of Coal on Deck

The whaler Karluk will clear for the north to-morrow afternoon. With her crew of fifteen and several of the scientific staff aboard she will start on the first stage of her journey towards the ice of the Arctic regions. The trim little whaler is loaded deep with provisions, with barrels of molasses, with cereals and all the necessary equipment for an Arctic venture.

The loading of the Karluk is not yet quite completed. It had been the intention to finish by Saturday night, but the task was not done by then, although a large part of the naval yard force had been working overtime all the week. But only three hours' work remained to be done this morning, and the Karluk went afterward to the coaling wharf shortly before noon instead of eight in the morning, as was expected. She will take a deck cargo of 50 tons of best Welsh coal, and will replenish her supplies at Nome, the first port of call. Coaling will be completed to-day, but the work of adjusting compasses (always a most important preparation for a voyage of this sort) may have to be postponed until Tuesday.

Mr. Stefansson regrets that it has been impossible to allow the public to inspect the vessel, partly because that would have delaying outfitting, and also because the tendency of crowds to carry off as souvenirs any little articles that may be lying about. Capt. Bartlett, who is in command of the Karluk, says the ship and equipment are in excellent condition, and he expects to reach Nome in 20 days from Victoria, going by way of the inside passage to Unimak Pass, in the Aleutian peninsula, then to Nome direct. This will allow ample time for adjustment of cargo, for it will be necessary to replace all that has been consumed on the voyage to Nome. Besides, explorer Stefansson does not care, on account of the ice conditions in the Arctic ocean, to leave Nome before July 20.

The scientific work of the expedition will begin as soon as the vessel leaves anchor, for Oceanographers Murray and Johansen will conduct on voyage, constant investigation of ocean, fish and other life chemistry of the sea, temperature, currents, etc., in a laboratory specially constructed for them on the deck of the whaler. This is indicative of the general character of the expedition, which is primarily and principally a scientific expedition, and combines scientific thoroughness with sensational plans for geographic discovery.

Ten years' experience with Peary will be at the right hand of Stefansson during the voyage to Victoria Land in the person of Capt. Bartlett, who is probably the most accomplished Arctic mariner and pilot living to-day.

On Saturday Premier McBride, together with Hon. D. M. Eberts, who had previously been received at the navy yard by Commander Hesse and George Phillips, were met by Villahalm Stefansson, who conducted them over the Karluk.

DELIGHTFUL OUTING TO HIGG'S LANDING

Natural History Society Explores Albert Head Neighborhood Under Scientific Guides

On Saturday one of the most enjoyable expeditions ever organized by the Natural History Society took place, a party of about thirty leaving the inner harbor at 1:30 by Dumbleton's launch and conveying the members and their guests to Higg's Landing, where the party, having disembarked and listened to a short lecture by Mr. Clapp, broke up into several small groups and scattered about the district under separate guides.

Mr. Clapp, of the Geological Survey of Canada, is at present engaged in making a tabulated analysis of the geological features of the Island, and in the course of his talk called attention to the several examples of basaltic formation in the immediate vicinity of the landing place. Assisted by Mr. Sutton, Mr. Clapp conducted a party along the foreshore, pointing out the details of various volcanic formations, including the site of an ancient volcano, and igneous rocks which appear in abundance at this point, and which, with other indications, fixed the formation of this part of the Island in the Eocene subdivision of the Tertiary period.

Another party headed by G. Harvey, investigated some of the prehistoric burying places on Dr. Hart's property, making some excavations about the mounds there, and listening to their guide's explanation of the charcoal and charred wood found in the cairns. At the conclusion of the afternoon's expedition the entire party, which included four members of the Karluk's expedition, H. Beuchat, ethnologist; J. Murray, oceanographer; G. S. Molloch, geologist; and D. Jennes, anthropologist, were invited to Dr. Hart's country residence, where tea was served on the lawn, and the afternoon's outing brought to a pleasant conclusion with a vote of thanks to the hostess.

PASSING SHOW

Majestic Theatre.

Monday and Tuesday "The District Attorney's Conscience," an intensely interesting drama that holds the attention to the very last scene. You wonder how it's going to turn out. Then when the climax is reached it seems perfectly logical. "Broncho Billy's Way," a new western story, dramatic and wholesome in its significance, being quite free from sentimentality. It is very effectively built, and the acting carries it forward in the new drama the most appealing role of her career, and everywhere she has appeared she has scored a veritable triumph. Nothing this brilliant young actress has ever done has reached the artistic heights which have been attained in this unusual play. Miss Starr will be seen here supported by the same company that was seen with her in New York. "The Case of Becky" comes to the Victoria theatre this evening.

The coming of either Robert Edson, Wilton Lackaye, Max Fisman or Rose Coghlan to a theatre always means one of the important events of a season, but with these stars in a single cast, together with Lolita Robertson, Amelia Sumner, Helen Hilton and the others who comprise the original stellar array appearing in "Fine Feathers," the occasion becomes a most notable one. This attraction is coming to the Victoria theatre June 17 and 18, arriving direct from the Astor theatre, New York, where it has just closed a run of 100 nights, following a six months' stay in Chicago. "Fine Feathers" is a re-
